School Bells About To Sound Again

It will be back to school a week from today for Andover youngsters, with the teachers returning to their classrooms on Tuesday as the annual summer sojourn from studies comes to a close.

Today's edition of the TOWNSMAN contains a 44-page pullout section containing all pertinent information about the re-opening of schools, including home room assignments, school bus routes and what youngsters and teachers alike can expect when the bells sound next Thursday morning.

'Pioneeringly New' Plan For Reuse Of East Junior High

By Sue Aucella Deacon

The town of Andover is on the verge of a decision "so pioneeringly new" that it could become "a landmark in municipal financing," Reuse Committee Chairman Lawrence Spiegel said this week.

The decision: to sell the east and west wings of East Junior High to a developer, and then lease those wings for use as town and school offices for up to 15 years. At that point, the town would buy back the wings.

Town meeting must approve that plan. But are voters likely to approve such an unprecedented proposal? "I'm very optimistic about it because it makes sense," Spiegel said. "We could literally have our cake and eat it, too."

Spiegel's reuse committee is currently "fine-tuning" about a dozen proposals from "very reputable" local developers. Each proposal describes how the developer would rehabilitate the two wings, renovating them into office space, and then lease them back to the town.

At the same time, the chairman explained, the town has hired its own architects to design the project, taking it right to the final design stage. So if town officials or town meeting decide against selling the wings, the town will be ready to handle the renovation on its own.

The committee plans to spend September studying the developers' proposals, getting cost estimates on each and taking them to the town's bond counsel for financial analysis.

And around Oct. 1, the committee will present what they consider the best proposal to the Board of Selectmen. "If the selectmen agree that the proposal makes sense, we will ask them to call a special town meeting at their pleasure," Spiegel indicated.

But whether officials and town meeting elect to go with the developer's proposal or let the town pay for the renovations, they must act quickly, the chairman said: "We do not want the building to go unheated during the winter. That would be very destructive. We've got to get on with it."

One way or the other, therefore, the two wings that were once part of East Junior High will be ready for occupancy as office space within a year, Spiegel added.

The committee is pursuing the sale-to-developer option with enthusiasm because they believe it will save Andover "big money," he said. "Private industry can do things cheaper than government can." A private developer, for example, could take advantage of new rehabilitation tax credits, as well as state CARD (Commercial Area Revitalization District) low-interest revenue bonding.

Yet the town would retain "absolute control" over the project, he maintained. "There would be no compromises. The town would get exactly what it wants — everything would be built exactly to our specifications."

Some 15 years down the road (some developers have proposed shorter periods), the town would buy back the wings. In the meantime, while the town paid rent, the developer would be paying property taxes — and according to the reuse committee's plan, the net cost to the town would be far less than if the town had simply renovated the wings itself.

"At this point, there is every indication that the town can have its cake and eat it, too," Spiegel said. "We're looking at some sound proposals that could save the town considerable sums of money. It looks like it might happen."

The standard the committee is using to compare costs is what it would cost the town to fund the project with a 10-year bond. "That's the target we've been using, that's the bottom line," he explained.

If the selectmen agree to call a special

Senior Citizens Lunch At New Location

The Senior Citizens School Lunch Program, offered by the Andover school department and the Council on Aging, will resume Tuesday, Sept. 14, in a new location.

The lunch program will find a new home in the cafeteria of the newly-renovated Doherty Junior High School. Increased attendance during the summer lunch program at the Shawsheen School forced the COA and school department to seek a new location for the fall. Food Service Director Richard Barron explained.

"The senior citizens lunch program has outgrown the cafeteria at the Shawsheen School," Barron said. "The new location at the Doherty will allow us to serve more seniors in a comfortable setting, with no stairs to climb."

Luncheon, with a choice of the senior citizens menu or salad bar, will be offered Monday through Friday at 12:45 p.m. Parking is available in a lot adjacent to the cafeteria, at the site of the old Stowe School.

Reservations are required: seniors should call the Senior Center at 470-0870 by 10 a.m. on the day they wish to attend to make reservations.

The lunch program is limited to Andover residents.

Building Group Makes Last Minute Check

The School Building Committee is scheduled to meet at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the Town Hall conference room, their last meeting before the renovated Doherty Junior High School opens its doors next Thursday.

The committee is expected to continue discussion of the $13.72 million project's equipment budget, which is close to completion.

And discussion is likely to center on progress at the Doherty, as Peabody Construction works toward its Sept. 9 deadline. Committee members expect some final touches to remain unfinished when the school opens, however.

School Lunch Prices Remain The Same

School lunch prices for the Andover public school students will not be increased this fall, as the Food Services department readies for another school year.

Elementary and junior high students will be charged 65¢, while high school students will pay 75¢.

Continued increases in operating costs and reduced federal assistance make it difficult to hold lunch prices firm, according to Food Service Director Richard Barron, but he says his department is making "every effort" to keep prices stable.

Barron says the department looks forward to student support of the lunch program this year.

Selectmen Facing Light Agenda

The Board of Selectmen will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday night at Town Hall, their regular Monday night meeting time postponed by Labor Day. And although their agenda was not yet complete at press time, it appears that the board will not have to work too hard on the day after the long weekend.

Town Manager Kenneth Mahony said yesterday that he expected little more than a few routine items on next week's agenda. State Senator Patricia McGovern has requested that the selectmen consider new legislation they would like to see introduced next year, and the board may discuss that.

The manager said they are also likely to discuss the gravel removal situation at the Andover Country Club, which will come up for discussion at a public hearing on Sept. 20.

And Mahony expects that the selectmen are likely to talk about next week's school opening, particularly the progress of construction at Doherty Junior High.

AMC Sponsors Picnic

The Andover Committee of Appalachian Mountain Club will sponsor a picnic at canoe launch site and pine grove on the Shawsheen River in Andover on Sunday, Sept. 12, from 12:30 p.m. to 4 p.m. The public is welcome. Bring lunch and blanket; also canoe, if interested. Charcoal fire will be available as well as horseshoes, volleyball and 15 conservation acres for walking or hiking.

From Andover center take Central Street to Andover Street, left on Andover Street, following railroad tracks to Ballardvale center, cross tracks and river, turn right onto River Street, go one mile, turn right on Lowell Junction Road and cross two sets of railroad tracks. Canoe launch and picnic site are on right opposite Instrumental Lab Inc. building.

It takes one second for the wings of small hummingbird to beat 70 times.

A Workshop For Young Voices

A number of Andover children recently took part in a week-long seminar in classical music, the Singers' Workshop, offered by the North Parrish Treble Chorus in North Reading. The workshop was sponsored in part by a Massachusetts Arts Lottery Grant for the Performing Arts. Pictured are Andover children Shannon Canavin, Kim Gould, Emily Muldoon, Helena Padellaro, Patricia Squibb, Carolyn Yoder and Amy Zimmerman. Also shown are members of the Treble Chorus, including Tara Bachner, Hilary Driscoll, Mark Driscoll, Debbie Hanscom, Mark Hein, Sarah Merrill, Frank Padellaro, David Rehe and Alyssa Sullivan.

Art In The Park Set For Sept. 11

The Department of Community Services and the Andovers Artists Guild, Inc., will co-sponsor the annual "Andover Art in the Park 1982" to be held Saturday, Sept. 11, in Central Park, Andover, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Central Park is located at Chestnut and Bartlet Streets, off of Andover Square.

This fine arts show and sale will feature the graphics, photography, sculpture and paintings in all media of one hundred artists from the New England area. A qualified panel of judges will award prizes for each media category to outstanding works from among those placed in special competition.

Categories are: Best in Show, Not Under Glass, Under Glass, Graphics, Drawings, Photography, Sculpture. There will be a first, second and third place prize in each category.

Food concessions, free parking and rest room facilities will be provided on the show grounds. In case of rain, the date will be moved to Sunday, Sept. 12.

Bancroft Road Race Set

The Bancroft School P.T.O. has committed itself to purchasing a microcomputer for their school. This educational tool will make the computer literacy program available to more students. On Sunday, Oct. 3, the Bancroft Road Race and Fun Run, the major fund-raising event, will take place. The 10 K. road race (starting time 12:30 p.m.) has been professionally organized. Accurate splits will be given and water will be provided on the course. The finish line will be supervised by race chairperson Dale Edmonds. Trophies will be awarded to the top three finishers in eight age/sex categories. The entry fee is $4.

The Fun Run (2K. or 1.24 miles) will start at 12 p.m. and cover a course suitable for all ages. Certificates will be given to all finishers, and medals will be awarded to the first three finishers in each grade category: K and under; 1 and 2; 3 and 4; 5 and 6; 7 and 8; 9 and above. The entry fee is $1.

Pepsi and Colombo Yogurt will donate refreshments.

Entry blanks, with course map on the back, are available at the stores sponsoring the event: Andover Sports Shop, Earthfood, Feet First and Cole's Hardware. Blanks are also available at many sporting goods stores in the Greater Lawrence area, the Andover and Lawrence YMCAs, Berke's in Andover and Cedardale.

An official race number for either race may be picked up on race day, or a self-addressed, stamped envelope should be mailed with entry blank to: Jim Kirkiles, 11 Pasho St., Andover, MA 01810.

Colorful tee-shirts will be given to the first 300 entrants, compliments of the Andover Savings Bank.

The Bancroft P.T.O. also has the support of other local sponsors: Capital Distributing, Inc.; Victor Realty; Naiman Press, Inc. in Lawrence; and the REACT volunteer organization.

To Offer Enrichment Program

The Looking Glass, an after-school creative enrichment program, will be offered to all children in Andover, from preschool through ninth grade. A variety of classes in the arts and sciences will be available in all four elementary schools and the two junior highs Monday through Thursday from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m., starting Sept. 28. Classes will be small with high quality instruction in music, drama, visual arts, creative writing, science and mathematics. Open house and registration will take place Monday, Sept. 13, at Memorial Hall Library, and again on Wednesday, Sept. 15, at West Junior High (Community Services).

The Looking Glass, with the cooperation of the Andover Department of Community Services, aims to enrich the learning experiences of children by providing a stress-free environment to pursue special interests and discover the wonders of the world in unique ways.

Inherent in this process of discovery, children not only become more aware of their surroundings by using their senses more effectively, but have more opportunity to use the right sides of their brains. Recent research indicates that the right hemisphere of the brain is responsible for spatial relationships and holistic processing (intuition). The ability to switch to the appropriate hemisphere in problem solving is the key to a high I.Q. Several recent studies indicate that a curriculum balanced between right and left hemispheric activities produces higher test scores in the "basics." Discover magazine, Sept. '82, speculated in an article discussing the difference in I.Q. between American and Japanese children, that the superior I.Q. of Japanese children may be due to their greater skill in spatial relationships (a right hemispheric function).

In addition to increased right hemispheric processing, this type of stimulation aids in developing concentration, self discipline and self esteem.

Barbara Bhiladvala, Bonnie Pecoraro and Esther Feier are founders of the Looking Glass. They are Andover residents and members of the American Association of University Women, Andover-Georgetown.

Bhiladvala has a BS in Psychology and Education from Tufts U. and an M.Ed. from Boston U. in Humanistic and Behavioral Studies. She's worked in psychology and education for 12 years.

Pecoraro has a BA from Fairleigh Dickinson in Marketing Research and was a board member of the Arts Workshop for Children in North Reading.

Feier has a BBA from C.C.N.Y. (Baruch School) and an EdM from Harvard University in Human Development. She has worked at Northern Essex Community College and has been involved in many diverse activities including E.R.A., Alternative Work Schedules and Math Anxiety. She also studied for three years at the Montserrat School of Fine Art.

The program seeks the support of the community to achieve its goal of bringing diverse, quality enrichment to the children of Andover. Persons with ideas, talents, expertise and most of all, enthusiasm, contact: Barbara Bhiladvala, 7 Agawam Lane; Bonnie Pecoraro, 3 Windemere Drive; or Esther Feier, 10 College Circle.

Fitness Classes Scheduled

Bodywise will begin its aquasize class at the Phillips Academy pool on Sept. 30, sponsored by the Andover Department of Community Services. There will be eight classes meeting on Thursdays from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Aquasize is a series of exercises done to music in waist-deep water, which develop muscle strength and flexibility. It is not just for swimmers, but people of all ages and abilities.

Register with the Andover Dept. of Community Services at West Jr. High on Sept. 15 from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m., or mail registration fee to Andover Department of Community Services, Ann's Lane, Andover, MA 01810.

Bodywise will again offer baby swim and gym programs at the Lawrence Boys Club pool. There will be three sessions: Tuesdays and Fridays from 9:30 a.m. to 10:30 a.m., beginning Oct. 1; Saturdays, 8:30 a.m. to 9:45 a.m., beginning Oct. 2; Tuesdays and Fridays from 9:30 a.m. to 10:30 a.m., beginning Nov. 5. Registration is limited.

For further information, contact Bodywise, Box 847, Groveland, MA 01834.

"The high-minded man is fond of conferring benefits, but it shames him to receive them." Aristotle.

Endicott Registration

Fall registration for part-time students at Endicott College, Beverly, takes place Monday, Sept. 13, from 1:15 p.m. to 5 p.m. and Tuesday, Sept. 14, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon and 1:30 p.m. to 3 p.m. at Bierkoe Auditorium.

Students may register for daytime credit courses in career programs including art, business, retailing, hotel-restaurant management, photography and travel and tourism and other professional and liberal arts programs.

The fall term will begin Sept. 15 and end Nov. 24 when full-time students leave for a four-week internship in their major field of study.

Information on courses and other continuing education programs is available by calling Dean David Fraser at the college.

Bon Secours Receives MNA Accreditation

Bon Secours Hospital has once again been accredited by the Massachusetts Nurses association (MNA) as a provider of continuing education for registered nurses (RNs). This four-year accreditation allows the hospital to continue to grant contact hours to RNs who must accumulate credits to qualify for relicensure. Bon Secours Hospital's department of education has provided this service for more than six years.

According to Constance Fitzpatrick, coordinator of the department of education's staff development division, the accreditation process involved several steps, including the submission of an official application to the MNA's Commission of Continuing Education and participation in an intensive on-site survey performed by a team of representatives from that committee. After completing the survey, the representatives compiled a final report and presented it to the MNA's board of directors which voted for approval.

A variety of programs will be offered to provide RNs with current information on pertinent medical techniques and procedures. Topics will include pain management, modern diagnostic techniques and pediatric trauma cases. To obtain a complete continuing education calendar for September to December, contact the department of education at the hospital.

Work Of Therapists To Be Recognized By Hospital

The rehabilitation of physically handicapped patients at Lawrence General Hospital (LGH), Lawrence, is a team effort. It often begins as soon as the patient's condition is stable.

It is this effort by specially trained physical, occupational and speech/language and hearing therapists which is recognized during National Rehabilitation Week, Sept. 12-18.

Constant advances in medical technology are saving lives which were once lost. Sometimes, as in the case of stroke or head injury, although life is saved temporary or permanent physical disability may occur.

If disability does occur, LGH physical therapists visit the patient as soon as possible to begin range of motion exercises to reduce muscle contraction and maintain mobility, explained Vivian Ackley, RPT, director of the LGH physical and occupational therapy departments. "They are also there to reassure the patient a rehabilitation program is underway from day one," she added.

All physical and occupational rehabilitation programs are under the direction of Chandrakant Patel, M.D., physical medicine and rehabilitation specialist.

These physical therapists are all graduates of a four or four-and-a-half year degree program from an approved college and have passed a state registration examination. They are trained not only in various types of therapy, but also have a strong background in muscle and neuromuscular anatomy and physiology.

Occupational therapists undergo much the same training as physical therapists, but theirs also includes psychiatry, orthotics, (splints and braces), perceptual and cognitive testing and teaching daily living activities (washing, dressing, eating). They also must pass a national registration examination.

"There is a lot of overlapping between physical and occupational therapy. We are often working on the same problem from a different approach," stated Elise Brown, OTR, LGH senior occupational therapist.

While the physical therapist may have patients do repetitive walking movements to exercise their legs as well as their memories, the occupational therapist may teach ways to remember to take medication. Each is designed to help a memory problem, Brown added.

Early intervention by a speech/language pathologist also is part of LGH's comprehensive approach to the rehabilitation of physically disabled patients.

Speech/language pathologists are trained to help persons with a speech loss due to a brain injury (stroke, accident, birth damage). The pathologists at LGH are all masters degree graduates of an accredited college and have passed a national certification exam. They have a strong background in human physiologic and neurologic functions and in how to administer specialized language tests.

By using these tests they can accurately determine what the speech problem is (difficulty pronouncing sounds, choosing words, formulating ideas or forming sentences) and develop an individualized treatment program.

Audiologists, hearing loss specialists, also play a role in rehabilitation disabled patients. They too hold a masters degree and have passed a national certification exam.

Using their specialized knowledge of how the body hears and with the aid of sophisticated equipment they can pinpoint a specific type of hearing loss in a child as young as 18 months.

Once the type of loss is known they can fit a hearing aid to help compensate for it. If a hearing aid is not sufficient, they can help by teaching speech (lip) reading.

Whether physical therapists, occupational therapist, speech/language pathologist or audiologist, all rehabilitation workers must treat the families of their patients as well as the patients themselves.

Most often this means helping families understand what patients are still able to do and what they may never be able to do again.

"Sometimes we must teach the family to understand even if a person can only brush his teeth and wash himself partly, it is important to encourage him to do these few things for himself," commented Brown.

Of the 50,000 words in a standard unabridged dictionary of English, Shakespeare used only 24,000 in his writings, and 5,000 of those he used only once.

Kent Hill In Concert In Methuen

The Methuen Memorial Music Hall will present Kent Hill in an organ recital on Wednesday, Sept. 8, at 8:30 p.m. The program includes Commotio opus 58 - Carl Nielsen; Fantasy on the chorale "Halleluja! Gott zu loben, bleibe Meine Seelenfreud" Opus 52, number 3 - Max Reger; Variations on "Lucis Creator" - Jehan Alain; Postlude for the Office of Compline - Alain; and Prelude and Fugue on the Theme B-A-C-H - Franz Liszt.

Hill is professor of music at Mansfield (PA) State College, where he was acting chairperson of the music department for the last academic year. He is parish musician for Grace Church (Episcopal), Elmira, N.Y. He holds degrees from Oberlin Conservatory of Music and Eastman School of Music, where he received his Doctor of Musical Arts degree in 1966.

Hill spent two years studying in Europe, first as a Fulbright Scholar and more recently on sabbatical leave. His teachers have included Leo Holden, David Craighead, Mishael Schneider and Jean Langlais.

He has performed widely in the eastern United States and Europe. He was second place winner in the 1958 National AGO Organ Playing Contest, and played for the midwinter convention of the AGO in Washington, D.C., in 1971.

The Music Hall was erected by the late Edward F. Searles solely to provide the optimal visual and acoustical setting for the Walcker organ. However, the Hall also contains a very important work of art—a copy of Guido Reini's famous painting, "The Aurora," executed in marble.

The Methuen Memorial Music Hall is located on Broadway (Rte. 28) on the banks of the Spiket River.

The Fall Series of concerts will begin October 1 with Michael Kramer at the piano.

Montessori Classes To Resume

Thirty-eight children from Andover are awaiting the re-opening next week of the Andover School of Montessori.

The school, beginning its eighth full year of operation, will welcome new students on Tuesday, Sept. 7, and last year's students will return on Thursday, Sept. 9. An expanded staff, which includes three certified Montessori Directresses and three trained assistants, have been preparing rooms and material for classes. Many materials have been purchased over the summer, and for the first the school will offer an extended care program to students ages two years, nine months through six, in addition to the previously incorporated extended day program for five year olds.

Emily Brodsky, Jonathan Buba, Cara Daly, Hannah Edmonds, Aaron Gaynor, Abby Goldstein, Brian La Franchi, Joshua LeMaitre, Christopher Loomis, Andrew McDonald, Lee Palmer, Randy Romano, Shawn Shetty, Rebecca Thyresson, Abigail Woodroffe, Elizabeth Adler, Richard Bateman, Aaron Cooper, Erick Earle, Joel Elzweig, Julie Galaburda, Brian Gantz, Merrisa Gordon, David McDonald, Kathleen Phaneuf, Seth Robbins, Stuart Townsend and Lara Mahoney will attend regular morning sessions from 8:45 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Monday through Friday. In addition, ten more children from Andover, including Kyra Bateman, Laughlin Chanler, Jeffrey de Beer, Jennifer Gantz, Thomas Morton, Margaret O'Brien, Matthew Goldstein, Jacqueline LeMaitre, Emily Rose and Edward Stewart, Jr. will participate in the extended day program, remaining each day until at least 2:15 p.m.

Preserving The Harvest

Do you have more tomatoes and cucumbers than you have neighbors? If you do, then the Department of Community Services has the course for you. Learn how to preserve the fruits of your labor in this three-day intensive mini-course, "Preserving Your Garden Harvest," Sept. 14-16.

The first two sessions will be held at Andover High School from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Greg Reppucci, the instructor, will include the techniques of salting, dehydration, brining and freezing as well as cover the principles of canning high and low acid foods.

Class will conclude on Thursday, Sept. 16, at the Community Canning Center at the Essex Agricultural Institute from 6:30 to 10 p.m. Students will have a "hands on experience" in preserving pickles, relish, jam, sauerkraut, vegetables and fruits.

Students may have to supply some materials. Registration forms are available in the Department of Community Services, Shawsheen School. Deadline is Sept. 10. The class is limited and there is a small registration fee.

State Grants To Aid Institutions

Governor Edward King and Secretary George S. Kariotis have announced the award of $1,296,674 in grants in aid to 21 different Massachusetts education and training institutions. The grants were approved by the board of directors of the Bay State Skills Corporation at the executive committee meeting on Aug. 12. These program monies will be used to provide education and training programs for 591 individuals throughout the Commonwealth.

"These 21 grants include special efforts to target training activities towards those individuals who are most in need," commented Susan K. Moulton, executive director. "The corporation is now working to provide training for unemployed urban youth as well as providing supported work for mentally retarded citizens. Our mandate has broadened and our training activities reflect this change."

The programs funded range from training as electronic assemblers to plastics technicians. The BSSC funds have been matched by private sector contributions of $837,552.

The BSSC is a state-funded organization created in 1981 and presently funded with nearly $8 million to provide matching grants to train Massachusetts citizens for jobs in growing, private sector companies. A major aim of BSSC programs is to create on-going partnerships between businesses and education and training institutions.

In Andover, the Greater Lawrence Educational Collaborative was funded $28,580 to train mentally retarded persons in housekeeping, skills, working with the Holiday Inn (Lawrence).

The almond is a member of the same family as the apple, peach and cherry. It developed into a nut instead of a fruit. At the same time, its pit was found to be good to eat.

Office Skills

A new one-year Intensive Office Skills program will be offered at Northern Essex Community College, Haverhill, funded by the Massachusetts Department of Occupational Education. The program is designed to provide 25 students with essential office skills for entry-level positions, reinforce existing skills or help acquire new skills needed because of changing office technology.

Students will have the opportunity to acquire some background in computers and word processors and receive training on transcribers, memory typewriters, electronic typewriters, transcribers and adding machines and calculators. Actual job experience may be included while students are studying specific academic courses.

A certificate will be awarded and the placement services of the college will be available to assist them in finding permanent employment. Additional information and application form may be obtained by calling the Admissions Office at Northern Essex Community College.

PUBLIC ANNOUNCEMENT CONCERNING LAWRENCE GENERAL HOSPITAL

Lawrence General Hospital, One General Street, Lawrence, Massachusetts, intends to file an application with the Massachusetts Department of Public Health, for Determination of Need to operate an Ambulatory Surgery Center to be located at the Andover Mills Research Center, Stevens Street, Andover, Massachusetts. The Ambulatory Surgery Center will include two (2) operating rooms and support areas, and will be used to provide surgical services on a same-day basis for area residents. The estimated capital expenditure is $676,000.

A public hearing shall be ordered on the application at the request of any ten taxpayers of the Commonwealth made in writing, not later than September 21, 1982, to the Department of Public Health, 80 Boylston Street, Room 1230, Boston, Massachusetts, 02116. The application may be inspected at such address and also at the Merrimack Valley Health Planning Council, Inc. at 120 Parker Street, Lawrence, Massachusetts, 01843.

Completes Advanced Training

Cleo A. Ploussios received a certificate of advanced training in psychotherapy from the Boston Institute for Psychotherapies, Inc. of Boston in June.

Mrs. Ploussios is the daughter of John and Evangeline (Kostas) Zoukis of Bradford. She lives with her husband and son in Andover.

Formerly a psychologist for the Belmont Public Schools, she is a staff psychologist for Wilmington Family Counseling Service in Wilmington. She has a Master's degree from Boston University and has completed course work for her doctorate there. Mrs. Ploussios is licensed as a psychologist by the Board of Registration of Psychologists and is listed in the National Health Register of Health Service Providers in Psychology. She is an associate member of the Northeastern Society for Group Psychotherapy. Currently, she has a private practice in Boston and Andover.

Merrimack College's Division of Continuing Education will offer three non-credit courses in Production Management from Sept. 7-8 to Nov. 9-10, as part of its series of courses on manufacturing and material management. The courses available are Inventory Management, Production Activity Control and Material Requirements Planning.

Peter Ryan, president of MRP Professionals, Inc., will conduct Inventory Management in a workshop setting Wednesdays from 6:45 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Topics will range from basic inventory management objectives to assessment and evaluation of various inventory models.

Production Activity Control, conducted by Leo Berlinghieri, materials manager at MKS Instruments, Inc. of Burlington, will meet Tuesdays from 6:45 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. This course will focus on the principles and methods of planning, scheduling and controlling production operations in manufacturing.

Through lectures, workshops and group discussions, John Gotwald, production control manager for Digital Material Requirements Equipment, Inc., will introduce students in the basics of inventory Planning course to the

A state representative who won't need on-the-job training

Experience counts. But not just any experience.

Harriet Ahouse is the candidate with the experience to get the job done right from the start. Her four years at the State House working for both Democratic and Republican legislative leaders makes her uniquely qualified to serve our district well.

But legislation is just one part of the job. A representative must also be effective when serving constituents.

Harriet Ahouse has served on eight community boards over the last ten years. She is the past president of four of them. Throughout, she has proved she can respond to people's needs with sensitivity and determination.

Harriet Ahouse knows your concerns. She can bring them to the state house and come back to Andover and Lawrence with more than mere good intentions.

Experience at the State House. Commitment at home. On September 14th, vote for Harriet Ahouse.

The '82 Campaign

Harriet Ahouse

The committee to elect Harriet Ahouse of 175 High Plain Road will hold a coffee open to the public at 8 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 2, at the Lawrence Savings Bank in Shawsheen Square. The Democratic candidate invites voters to join her there to discuss those issues important to you.

"I have had the unique opportunity to work for or with many legislators, including all of the local state representatives," Ahouse says. "They know me on a first-name basis. Because of my in-depth experience at the State House, I've been able to spend my campaign time explaining to the voter solutions I've formulated on the issues," she adds.

For example, according to Ahouse, she wrote legislation to reorganize the department of mental health and department of public health which would provide "a better level of service to the people who need it while saving the taxpayer $80 million."

"I know the issues, the people they effect, and the people key to their resolution," she maintains. "And these legislative leadership people know me, my strengths and my integrity."

Sue Tucker

The battle to get voters to recognize candidates' names has reached "epidemic proportions" in the race for the representative's seat. Democratic candidate Sue Tucker, 6 Farrwood Drive, notes this week, pointing to the wealth of "signs, billboards, handwaving from street corners and similar hoopla. Name recognition is important to all the candidates," she says, "but the important question for the voters of Andover and Lawrence is, which candidate is best qualified to represent us in the legislature?"

Tucker

To inform voters of her qualifications and her views, Tucker continues to emphasize door-to-door visits in her campaign. She has also scheduled four open houses in different neighborhoods for Sept. 7, 8 and 9.

She asks voters to consider "two fundamental questions" before the Sept. 14 primary: which candidate can do the most for the district, and which candidate has the best understanding of the reforms needed to make state government function more effectively?

Tucker maintains that the district will

The campaign of Nicholas J. Kolofoles, 35 Ames St., Lawrence, received a big boost this week when two former representatives — Atty. Arthur S. Sobol and Wilfred "Fritz" Beauchesne — endorsed the Democratic candidate seeking the state representative's post for the 17th Essex district.

Kolofoles

Sobol, who served in the House during 1973-74, and Beauchesne, who served in 1975-78, both represented Lawrence's Tower Hill section, which is part of the 17th Essex district. Sobol also represented part of Andover. Both former represen-

Representative 17th Essex District

Brian Bresnahan

Brian Bresnahan of 12 Lillian Terrace, Democrat, plans to meet with Lawrence Jail Superintendent Coppola and Assistant Superintendent Talbot to discuss the overcrowding in jails throughout the Commonwealth. The candidate says he is

Bresnahan

"frustrated with the discouraging messages" he has received during recent meetings with Andover Police Chief Johnson, Lawrence Alderman of Public Safety Schiavone, and Judge Perrochi.

"The message that I am receiving from the people closest to the area of public safety is that their hands are tied because there are not enough jail facilities in Massachusetts," Bresnahan says. "Although I don't believe that Greater Lawrence is the proper area to build these facilities, I do believe that we need to increase the number of jail facilities throughout the state."

The candidate says he plans to tour the Lawrence jail to get a first-hand view of the conditions there.

Bresnahan's election committee kicked off the first phase of a literature drop last Saturday, when 35 volunteers distributed a brochure highlighting the candidate's views on taxes, crime, and elderly assistance programs.

On Tuesday, Sept. 7, the committee will host a ham and bean supper for senior citizens at the Elks Lodge on Andover Street, Lawrence, with a rally to follow. And Bresnahan will appear at a public forum at the Ballardvale Library on Wednesday night.

Gerry Grasso

Because he says all candidates are willing to support what is obviously good for the district, Gerry Grasso, 6 Arthur Road, a Democratic contender, continues to stress in campaigning his "dedicated background" and notes he is not afraid to "speak out" for what he thinks is right.

He says a question he is often asked is, "Why are you running for state representative?"

"In the past few years I have become involved in many enjoyable personal and community services, during which I have not hesitated to address any controversial issues," says Grasso. "When Representative Cohen decided to leave office, it seemed like a natural step for me to continue my involvement to a state level. It's like a new position opening. If you have a good, civic-minded background and qualifications, you have to go for it."

Grasso says, if he is elected, he'll probably be the "most accessible representative." During the campaign, he has been jogging and bicycling around town to meet the voters. He will be a full-time representative, if elected.

Grasso

Vincent P. Davey

Vincent P. Davey, 23 Enmore St., a Democratic candidate, stresses his background and character in his campaign for state representative.

He says it's important to elect someone capable of acting in the best interests of the district's people. To elect someone because of how they stand on widely-known issues would be shortsighted, according to Davey, since a state representative will come across many, many other issues while in office.

That's where background, maturity and character come into play, he says.

He stresses his experience and performance as a parent of five children who knows the economic and emotional demands of raising a family, as a teacher who knows the demands placed on both students and parents, as a coach who stresses fair play along with the competitive spirit, as an accounts executive who understands the financial and economic communities, as a veteran and one of seven brothers who served in the armed services and felt it was not only an obligation but an honor.

Davey urges voters not to judge the viability of anyone's candidacy by the amount of money spent. He has not spent a considerable amount but says the momentum of his campaign is "where I want it to be." He says he is encouraged by the response to his candidacy, and notes he tries to avoid campaigning on street locations where other candidates may be, so as to eliminate the nuisance factor. But Davey says no one he has met has seemed upset about being "besieged" by so many candidates for office.

Davey

John R. Fox

Democratic candidate John R. Fox, 50 Walnut Ave., says that during his contact with the elderly community in campaigning he has been told that legal services are "inadequate" for elderly citizens or those on fixed incomes.

Fox is now working on forming a legal group for the area, comprised of law school students and attorneys who might offer their time — somewhat like a clinic or a legal aide society. Fox, who graduated from Suffolk University Law School, says, "It's definitely a feasible idea" and one that would provide "immeasurable" service to the elderly or those with income problems.

The candidate says the following personal endorsements of his candidacy are forthcoming: Ron Hancock, president of local A.F.S.C.M.E. 1704, and William "Buffy" Morris, president of local 1658 International Association of Firefighters. Fox says he is pleased to receive these endorsements, which he says indicates his ideas have a "strong following" among citizens of the district who have lived here for some time.

Fox notes that since Proposition 2½ eliminated collective bargaining for fighters, he is proposing the formation of an advisory board or fact-finding panel to buffer negotiations between the town and its firefighters. The candidate also stresses that education is a high priority in this town and in his campaign, along with elderly services.

Fox

William E. Melahn

Atty. William E. Melahn, 18 Ballardvale Road, a Republican candidate, recently announced at a meeting of the Ballardvale Improvement Society his support for the construction of a new interchange at Lowell Junction in Andover.

"The residents of Ballardvale are suffering because of heavy truck traffic forced on to local streets due to a lack of an interchange on 193 between Dascomb Road and Route 125," he said. "The appearance of these noisy trucks in a residential area is intimidating. The traffic interferes with the residents' enjoyment of their homes and poses a threat to the safety of small children."

Melahn

Kimberley Cronin

Republican candidate Kimberley Cronin of 8 Punchard Ave. continues to discuss issues with the voters during her door-to-door campaign throughout the district.

According to the Republican candidate, Proposition 2½ tops the list of voters' concerns. "The message of Proposition 2½ was loud and clear," she says, "cut taxes and make government work." While Cronin says she believes in the "philosophy" of 2½, she disagrees with "the way in which politicians choose to implement it."

Cronin

"Taxes were cut," she notes, "but at the expense of many services and jobs. The people want and deserve better management of their tax dollars, not wholesale cuts in services."

The candidate adds that "if we must all cope with rising costs in this difficult economy, then the state must learn to cope also."

Cronin plans to keep knocking on doors this week and next, "right up to the Sept. 14 primary."

He said he would as a legislator work to assure construction of the interchange.

Melahn also recently criticized "the Democratic platform" which proposes "a tax on computer software sales and services" and a tax bill "filed by the Democratic legislative leadership which changes the sales tax definition of 'tangible property' to tax time sharing and custom programs."

He said these taxes would be adverse to the economic climate of the Merrimack Valley area. He said the computer industry, which provides thousands of jobs, should be encouraged in Massachusetts, not threatened with additional taxes.

Candidates Events Are Scheduled

The Andover League of Women Voters has scheduled candidates events to provide voters with the opportunity to meet and hear those seeking representative and senate seats in the upcoming primary.

A Candidates Night is planned for Friday, Sept. 10 at Memorial Hall Library from 7 to 9 p.m. during which candidates for state representative for the 17th Essex District, (Andover) have been invited to participate, offer views and respond to questions.

A Candidates Coffee on Saturday, Sept. 11 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the Andover Savings Bank at Main and Chestnut Streets, has been planned to provide an opportunity for voters to meet the 17th Essex District candidates as well as state senatorial candidates.

Nursing

Laboure Junior College, 2120 Dorchester Ave., Boston, will begin a four-part series on long term care nursing Sept. 16, geared for registered nurses and licensed practical nurses in rehabilitation centers and nursing homes and other extended care settings.

All session will be held 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. and will offer three contact hours per class.

Students may attend the entire series or selected sessions.

For fee and registration information, call the Office of Continuing Professional Education at the college.

'Yankee Doodle' In Russian Accent Had A Peaceful Ring To It

By John P. Sawyer

Maybe what we really need to achieve peace in this world is a Soviet-U.S. summit session.

But instead of negotiating with the communist Russian government, let's let people talk to people.

Late one night in Leningrad, a cab driver was taking college senior Renee Pruneau, of Andover, back to her hotel. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Pruneau, 12 College Circle, Renee joined 19 other students in a recent eight-week visit to the Soviet Union through a program sponsored by Vanderbilt University.

Renee and her driver started talking.

Then he asked if Americans wanted war with Russia. Almost everyone she had met had asked her the same question.

"I told him that I did not believe that anybody really wanted war," she says. "He broke out in the biggest smile I have ever seen."

For the rest of the drive, the two taught each other patriotic songs.

"Yankee Doodle Dandy never sounded so heartwarming as it did with the old cab driver's Russian accent," Renee says. "When we arrived at my hotel, he gave me a very old kopek piece and told me his father had given it to him. He wanted me to have it, to bring me luck and happiness."

"They're petrified of war. They're so scared."

That was only the beginning of what Renee learned about the country she studies at college.

Besides being taken aback by the beauty of a land she thought was not beautiful and impressed by the feel of Russia's history, Renee discovered that the Soviet people were "totally different" than the government which runs the country.

"They do want things to change — they're not completely happy," she says.

The Soviet people are starving for news from the outside world. The only Soviet newspaper, Pravda, is the anti-American, propaganda arm of the government. The people don't understand when told there are hundreds of newspapers in the United States, but they do know they are not getting all of the news, according to Renee.

One of the students accompanying her when their plane landed in Russia was not allowed by authorities to take a Time Magazine through customs.

Everywhere Renee went, she says people would ask her "questions about what's going on in the world."

They also asked about American politics, but would not talk about theirs.

"They won't talk about it," she says. "They could get in trouble if anyone (over) heard them."

Renee notes the Russian people "have nothing that is really their own anymore." And Soviet economics are thin on consumer goods and food. Black and white television is fairly common (they run old movies and concerts), but automobiles are driven only by top communist leaders. Household set-ups, such as kitchens, are outdated. Restaurants often run out of different foods. Renee says the land is "rich and fertile," but technology is not developed to farm it.

She explains that the people have money, but nothing to spend it on. "It is a world of drab colors and unsmiling faces," according to Renee. "They try to buy your clothes."

In fact, people would "stare" at the Americans students, and even approach them believing they might be ladies of the night, according to Renee, because the Americans wore nice clothing.

At first, the Andover resident was angry at what she thought was apathy among Russians. She wondered if they did not like certain things, why did they not do something about it.

Renee notes that in the United States, we're used to changing things. But Russian history is full of czars and dictators, and the people have learned, "You don't go against what they say." They're a "passive" people who live within the system they're used to. For that reason, Renee believes that while communism might not be able to successfully and permanently take over other countries, in Russia it could stick.

It is also important to note, she says, that to Russians the family is more important than anything. She says Russians will turn against their neighbor as long as their own family is safe. They will not go out on a limb.

Military presence is everywhere in the Soviet Union.

"All over the place there are soldiers," according to Renee, who says, "They almost didn't let me into the country," because they felt her passport picture didn't look quite like her. But the people are used to the soldiers.

For entertainment, she says Russians visit museums, view movies or go to the local pub or park to drink. Although Renee's accommodations were the best available, it still wasn't that good.

Leaving the Soviet Union, Renee and her friends "kept saying how lucky we were." In fact, she says they always felt a doubt, until the plane was actually in the air, that they might have a problem getting out of the country.

Renee explains that when they landed in Helsinki, the dramatic difference in lifestyle was evident. People were smiling, wearing bright clothes. Restaurants had food.

She says it sounds "corny," but that Americans should have strong feelings of nationality. She says America has its faults and problems, but it's better here than anywhere.

"Nobody has anything close to what we have here," Renee says.

Dr. Bruce Participates In Research Expedition

Dr. Alease S. Bruce, 8 Rose Glen Drive, Andover, was a recent participant in a research expedition to study a diet and disease project in Liberia, West Africa.

The 13 participants of the project were selected from across the country representing California, Colorado, Maryland, Massachusetts and Washington, D.C., and co-directed by Dr. Linda Jackson, a biomedical anthropologist, and Dr. Robert Jackson, nutritional scientist, both of the University of California, Berkeley.

The research team conducted a study of the impact of cassava, a potato-like plant which is a staple food for millions of tropical South American, African and Asian peoples. The leaves and roots are eaten in a variety of forms, some of which contain high levels of a deadly poison, hydrogen cyanide. Studies show that chronic consumption of cassava can lead to neurologic damage and goiter. But, at the same time there is some indication that cassava plays a role in reducing the severity of sickle cell disease and malaria.

Working in small teams the participants visited cookshops in Monrovia and villages in the area to collect samples and document traditional methods of preparing cassava foodstuffs like dapa, dumbov, fufu, farina etc. They also traveled to the Agricultural Research Center at Suakoko to study the growth habits of and to collect numerous varieties of the plant. At the John F. Kennedy Hospital, Monrovia and a local maternity center, more than 100 volunteers were interviewed concerning their intake of cassava and severity of malaria and sickle cell disease, screened for evidence of cyanide toxicity, and urine, blood, breast milk and saliva samples were collected for later analysis in the states for thiocyanate content from cassava.

With federal funds and grants slashed, it is often very difficult for scientific research to get the financial backing it needs, but through participation in the University Research Expedition Program (UREP), team members made a tax-deductible contribution which covered the cost of the expedition and made possible the collection of more scientific data for analysis within a shorter period of time than would have been possible with one or two scientists working alone.

The experience, I found to be enlightening as well as rewarding, working with others of similar interest in related scientific fields, broadening my field research skills, as well as getting a first-hand look at

McGovern Receives Support

State Senator Patricia McGovern (D-Second Essex and Middlesex) this week received the support of several more statewide organizations in her primary for reelection to the State Senate. The state arm of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) expressed its support for the Senator, congratulating her on her achievements during her first term in office and thanking her for her diligent efforts to protect the interests of labor.

The Massachusetts Teachers Association (MTA) also commended Senator McGovern for her work on their behalf. In a letter to the senator from William H. Hebert, executive director-treasurer, and John M. Sullivan, director of government and community affairs, the MTA thanked Senator McGovern for her "steadfast leadership in support of education and teachers." The letter states further that her education-labor record during the past two years speaks well of her interest and support of issues of importance to the personal lives and professional careers of teachers throughout the state.

the life styles of people of another culture. I am now richer, but poorer from the experience, but given the opportunity, I'd love to go back. The willingness of the Liberian people to help us and the assistance offered us by the University of Liberia students was just incredible."

Dr. Bruce is an associate professor teaching anatomy and physiology and clinical immunology in the College of Health Professions at the University of Lowell. She is married to Dr. John I. Bruce. Their 12-year-old daughter, Shawn, is an eighth grade student at the Pike School, Andover.

During the July 13-14 New York City "black-out," when the city lost all electric power, a record eighty million phone calls were made.

Graduation

While students are focusing on the start of classes, nearly 150 Wentworth Institute of Technology seniors will put their books away and get their diplomas on Friday, Sept. 3, at 10 a.m.

Commencement exercises will be held in Wentworth's cooperative education program at the quadrangle on the college campus.

The students, who alternated semesters between class/lab study and employment in industry during the junior and senior years, will be awarded Bachelor of Science in Engineering Technology degrees.

HARRIET AHOUSE

REPRESENTATIVE

The primary campaign for state representative from our district is drawing to a close. Election day is Tuesday, September 14th, from 8:00 am to 8:00 pm.

While the campaign will end, the issues critical to Andover and Lawrence will continue. If elected as the Democratic nominee in September, I will continue this series of columns. Additional positions I intend to present include the problems I have seen in my visit to Walpole State Prison, as a House research staffer, the need for elderly housing units, and my proposal to reorganize the bureaucratic Department of Mental Health and the Commonwealth's institutional hospitals.

I have committed myself during this campaign to reach out to meet you and listen to the people of Andover and Lawrence. I have enjoyed getting to know you better, and having so many of you get to know me. As your state representative, I will strive to always let you know where I stand.

Hart Blasts Democrats On Social Security

Louise Hart noted that the recent transfer of funds between the social security accounts was only necessary because the Democrat leadership in the U.S. House of Representatives insists on playing politics with the security and future of today's and tomorrow's recipients.

"Social Security is the most important social program in this country," says Hart, the Republican candidate for U.S. Representative from the Fifth Congressional District. "Benefits must be protected, the system must be strengthened and public confidence must be insured."

"Unfortunately, this cannot happen so long as those in Washington do not have the courage and commitment to the one out of seven Americans who receive Social Security benefits and the one out of every two Americans who now contribute to the system."

"According to the Congressional Budget Office, the Social Security Board of Trustees, the Social Security Actuaries, the Retirement and Survivors Benefit Trust Fund,

Old Age and Survivors Insurance in which 85 percent of all social security benefits are paid, will be unable to pay full benefits beyond June 1983 and the entire system faces the possibility of insolvency by 1984.

"In addition, while half the people in this country will pay more in social security taxes than Federal income taxes this year, Social Security is paying out between $17,000 and $18,400 more than it collects every minute of every hour. That means that we are losing just over $1 million per hour."

"It is estimated that the social security deficit in 1982 will be around $9.1 billion, and in 1983 it is estimated that it will increase to $11.7 billion."

supposed to insure the solvency of the system for generations to come.

"It didn't, so Social Security now consumes more than 27 percent of the federal budget and will spend $200 billion this year.

"The fact is that the current conditions of the fund show poor planning and lack of real leadership.

"This year, instead of allowing the Social Security Committee to meet to discuss how to save the system, the Democrat leadership in the House blocked such meetings until President Ronald Reagan was forced to set up a bi-partisan commission to study the problems and make recommendations after the November elections.

"That is just seven months before the funds begin to go bankrupt," noted Hart.

"The Congress knows what has to be done," she charged. "It knows that it needs to act to protect current earned benefits and to insure the future of the system.

"It could today," she noted, "begin to start freeing senior citizens so they can work if they desire and earn more money without being penalized by reduced benefits. This would reduce pressure on the system, put more money in the system and not reduce any benefit check by a nickel," Hart continued.

"The funding of Social Security is not a problem that arose today or in 1980. The Congress has had several proposals before it, but has lacked the courage to choose," Hart concluded.

Wilfred J. Pouliot, Jr.

Appointed Division Manager

Wilfred J. Pouliot, Jr., of Andover has been promoted to division manager of Analog Devices' Components Test Systems Division (CTS). He reports to Heinrich F. Krabbe, vice president of New Business Development.

With the division since it started in the early part of 1980, Pouliot first served as director. With profit-and-loss responsibilities, he devised the strategy for the organization and followed through with its implementation. "The promotion," said Krabbe, "recognizes the significant contribution Mr. Pouliot has made towards bringing CTS from a start-up operation into a mature, viable division. Through a process that is often painful and difficult, he has successfully integrated a variety of different factors into a well-organized operation."

During the ten years Pouliot has been with Analog Devices he held several product line marketing positions in the areas of analog modules, converters and microcomputer analog input-output products. Before joining the Components Test Systems Division he was marketing manager for the Measurement and Control Products Division for two years. He established the marketing strategy of and introduced the new series of MACSYM products, which measure and control processes used in industrial and scientific applications.

Previous to Analog Devices, Pouliot was engineering manager for Teledyne Philbrick, Dedham, for three years. He also served in the U.S. Navy. He received a B.S.E.E. and credits towards an M.S.E.E. from Northeastern University. He also completed a number of management courses, including the Advanced Management Development Program at Northeastern.

Headquartered in Norwood, Analog Devices posted 1981 sales of $156.2 million and is the leading producer of data acquisition components, subsystems and systems used in precision measurement and control instrumentation and computerized control systems. The Components Test Systems Division is Analog Devices' first entry into the low-cost, automatic testing and evaluation systems for data acquisition components. The division employs about 60 people.

Joan Christine McAree, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. McAree of Andover, was married to Michael John Harding on June 26 at the outdoor grotto of the Lanam Club in Andover.

The groom is the son of Mrs. John Harding and the late John Harding, formerly of Andover.

The Hon. Albert Pettoruto officiated at the ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Lisa Ann McAree was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Susan McAree, Carol Corcoran and Jane Allen.

Timothy Harding was best man. Ushers were Joseph Harding, John Willis, Jr. and Philip Bartol. Mrs. Jean Harding was the guest book attendant.

After a garden reception at the Lanam Club, the couple left for an extensive cross-country trip.

The bride, a graduate of St. Anselm's College of Manchester, N.H., is employed as a staff nurse at the Lahey Clinic.

Her husband is a graduate of Emerson College and the Longy School of Music, Cambridge, and is employed by R & K Precision of Middleton.

Mrs. Michael J. Harding

Hendren-Platt

Mr. and Mrs. Shelby I. Hendren

Barbara Maria Platt, the daughter of Frederick Platt and the late Marguerite Platt of Sigourney, Iowa, was married to Shelby Ion Hendren on June 26 at Christ Church, Andover.

The groom is the son of Anna Hendren and the late William Hendren of Fairweather Apartments, Salem.

The Rev. James Diamond of Andover officiated at the 2 p.m. ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a silk organza gown with a Queen Anne neckline and chapel length train by Eva of Milady. The bodice was encrusted with lace and pearls, and the full chiffon skirt was edged in Venetian lace. Her veil was of Venetian lace, held by a Juliet cap. She carried a cascade of yellow roses and asparagus ferns fashioned after her mother's bridal bouquet, and wore a pearl necklace that was a gift of the groom.

The maid of honor was Jacqueline Hendren, daughter of the groom. Bridesmaids were Edith Mahon-Garcia of Andover, Peggy Corbett of Andover, Carole Trickett of West Fairlee, Vermont, and Monyeann Scott of Wolfboro, N.H. Michelle Platt of Sandy, Utah, the bride's niece, was flower girl. They wore long gowns in shades of yellow and white, and carried colonial bouquets of white daisies and yellow mums with white streamers. The flower girl carried a white wicker basket with daisies, and wore a halo of white daisies.

John Addis of Winthrop was the groom's best man. Ushers were Richard Pereria of Andover, Hamlin Boylton of Wolfboro, N.H., Zachary Ashes of Waltham, and Carlos Garcia of Andover. Robert Hendren, son of the groom, was ringbearer.

The altar and pews of the church were decorated with yellow roses and yellow and white daisies. Music included the Trumpet Voluntary, Purcell's Water Music. Soloists Jean Whitcomb and Ann Whiteside, friends of the bride, sang selections from Weston Priory and John Denver.

The groom's mother wore a street-length pink flowered dress and a corsage of white daisies.

Guests were present from Utah; New York; Vermont; New Hampshire; Iowa; Ramsgate, England; Boston; Winthrop; and Salem, Pa.

A reception was held after the ceremony at the log cabin at Phillips Academy.

Following a wedding trip to Nantucket, the couple is at home in Salem.

The bride, a graduate of Elmhurst College and Andover-Newton Theological School, is director of education for Christ Church.

Her husband, a graduate of Constantine High School, Constantine, Mich., and North Shore College, is a telecommunications specialist for Fidelity Mutual Systems.

Honored For Top Sales By Mary Kay

Linda Schlichting of Andover, an independent sales director for Mary Kay Cosmetics, Inc., has been awarded a new pink Buick Regal in recognition of her outstanding sales achievements with the Dallas-based firm.

Schlichting earned the car after her sales unit exceeded specified sales requirements during a six-month qualification period. The pink Buick Regal is the ultimate symbol of success for Mary Kay sales directors since only 630 are currently on the road out of a sales force of 150,000.

In a company that awards such prizes as diamonds, minks and exotic vacations, Mary Kay's pink Buick Regal is the most sought-after prize. The first time a Regal was given as an award was in 1969.

Schlichting joined Mary Kay Cosmetics in 1979 and became a sales director in 1980.

Mary Kay Cosmetics, Inc. is an international manufacturer and distributor of skin, hair and body care products, cosmetics, toiletries and fragrances.

Newport Trip

The Life Long Learning Program at Northern Essex Community College will sponsor a day trip to Newport, R.I., on Sept. 17 and a three-day trip to St. Andrews, New Brunswick, Canada, Oct. 1-3.

The one-day bust trip to Newport will feature tours of Hammersmith Farm and Belcourt Castle where a luncheon will be served.

The St. Andrews' trip will be guided by Frank Bostwick, an expert on British colonial history, who is scheduled to talk on the Loyalists at Northern Essex on Sept. 14. Many of the Loyalists who remained loyal to England during the American revolution fled the country when the "rebels" won the war. The Loyalists of Castine, ME, took apart their houses, floated the sections on barges and resettled in what is now St. Andrews, New Brunswick.

This trip includes two nights at the Algonquin Hotel, motor coach transportation and all meals except Saturday lunch and a stop at Campobello, Franklin Delano Roosevelt's "beloved island."

Reservations for both trips must be made by Sept. 2. Additional information may be obtained by calling the Life Long Learning Office at the college.

Emerson College

Emerson College of Boston, the only fully accredited four-year communication college in the United States, brings its expertise to Northern Massachusetts when it established an off-campus extension program in Beverly.

The program offers courses leading to a bachelor's degree in Mass Communication and has been designed to serve adults whose full-time jobs, responsibilities and location prevent them from attending classes at the Boston campus.

Classes are scheduled weekly from 6 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. at Endicott College, Route 127, Beverly, between Sept. 7 and Dec. 13.

For further details, write the Division of Continuing Education, Emerson College, 100 Beacon St., Boston, MA 02116

Drinking And Pregnancy

A community-wide campaign is underway to make the public aware of an important health issue, the risks of drinking during pregnancy.

A recent advisory from the U.S. Surgeon-General's office cautions women of child-bearing age that heavy drinking during pregnancy may lead to severe birth defects in newborns.

Birth defects associated with heavy alcohol use are known as the fetal alcohol syndrome or FAS. They are permanent and include serious problems, such as mental retardation and physical deformities.

Drinking during pregnancy is a leading known cause of birth defects. The important point is: alcohol-related birth defects can be prevented. The method is simple: when you're pregnant, the safest course of action is not to drink.

The local campaign represents a unified effort of several groups, including the March of Dimes and the Merrimack Valley Primary Prevention Center.

The message to pregnant women in this campaign is clearly expressed in the media slogan: "For baby's sake—and yours—the safest choice is not drink during pregnancy."

Fr. Casey Appointed Chaplain

Father Thomas J. Casey, OSA, has joined the staff of Lawrence General Hospital (LGH), Lawrence, as Catholic chaplain. He replaces Father James Nolan, OSA, who has been transferred to a post in Bryn Mawr, PA.

Fr. Casey is familiar with the hospital and the Merrimack Valley because of a pastoral post he held at St. Mary's Church in Lawrence from 1977-79.

He comes from St. Augustine's Church, Troy, N.Y., where he was assistant pastor. He also served as an assistant pastor at Carroll High School, Washington, D.C., St. James Church, Carthage, N.Y., and St. Nicholas of Tolentine, Atlantic City, N.J.

A native of New Haven, CT, Fr. Casey is a 1956 graduate of Villanova University. He attended the Augustinian College in Washington, D.C., before being ordained in 1969.

1-800-ALCOHOL

Religious Classes Resume

Registration will take place on the first day of religious classes at Temple Emanuel of Merrimack Valley, 101 West Forest St., Lowell, on Sunday, Sept. 12, from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m.

Although classes are held only one day a week, Hebrew and history, as well as contemporary mini-courses, are all covered in grades one through ten.

Some mini-courses include a greater understanding of various branches of Judaism, Jewish values and the Jewish calendar of holidays.

On Saturday, Sept. 11, an all-day open house Shabbaton celebration will be held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and will include a pot luck lunch and feature workshops, storytelling and contemplation on the meaning of the High Holidays. Call Ralph and Barbara Prolman for more details.

Massachusetts residents needing help or seeking information about alcohol only have to dial the word, 1-800-ALCOHOL, a brand new toll free helpline installed by Doctors Hospital, Worcester, as part of its effort to improve services to the community.

People calling the number can get information on alcohol or other drugs and can be referred to appropriate treatment centers. All calls are confidential.

Because more requests for information and referrals from a wider area are expected, Doctors Hospital has added a full-time coordinator to its staff. Louise Rodwill recently joined the hospital to implement the program and to recruit and train the volunteers who will be answering the phones. She will also be responsible for following up on calls to ensure that all people who call 1-800-ALCOHOL receive the most up-to-date information and the most effective referrals into treatment possible.

Anyone interested in more information or who want to volunteer, should call Rodwill at the hospital.

George Craig

George Craig of 15 Cassimere St., Andover, a resident of the town for many years, died Aug. 28 at Lawrence General Hospital after a long illness. He was 79.

A native of Johnston, Scotland, Mr. Craig was a member of the South Church, where he was a retired sexton. He belonged to the Phoenician Lodge AF & AM, Lawrence, for more than 50 years.

The widower of Jean D. (Gillespie) Craig, he leaves one daughter, Catherine (Mrs. Herbert A.) Skinner of Andover; two sons, Hamilton and Donald G. Craig, both of Andover; three sisters, Mrs. Isabella Hurst of Andover, Ann (Mrs. James) Raycroft of Raymond, N.H., and Mrs. Margaret Cox of New York; seven grandchildren, 10 great-grandchildren, and a number of nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning at Lundgren Funeral Home, 18 Elm St., Andover. Burial was in Spring Grove Cemetery.

Hilda A. Schmidt

Hilda A. (Briggs) Schmidt of 464 Main St., Hampstead, N.H., a former Methuen resident, died Aug. 30 at Hale Hospital, Haverhill, after a long illness. She was 88.

A native of Bradford, Yorkshire, England, Mrs. Schmidt moved to Methuen as a child. For many years, she was employed as a clerk in the Wood Mill. She belonged to Grace Episcopal Church, Lawrence, and Brunhilda Lodge No. 4 OdHS.

She leaves her husband, Edwin A. Schmidt; one son, E. Allen Schmidt, a retired Coast Guard captain, of Hampstead, N.H.; one sister, Alice (Mrs. Harold) Kellett of Andover; three grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

Private funeral services will be held on Thursday. Cremation will be at Linwood Cemetery, Haverhill.

Memorial contributions may be made to the American Heart Association, 79 North Main St., Andover 01810.

Henry J. Potvin, Sr.

Henry J. Potvin, Sr., of 48 Grove Ave., Salem, N.H., died Aug. 29 at Bon Secours Hospital after a long illness. He was 78.

A Lawrence native, Mr. Potvin moved to Salem 10 years ago from Methuen. He was the former manager of Methuen Window and Door Co.

He leaves his wife, Blanche (Paquette) Potvin; one daughter, Muriel (Mrs. James J.) Fary of Salem, N.H.; one son, Henry J. Potvin, Jr. of Salem; one brother, Herve Potvin of West Andover; three sisters, Imelda Moermmann and Laura Potvin, both of North Andover, and Alice Cleghorn of Nashua, N.H.; three grandchildren, and a number of nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning at Goundrey Funeral Home, 42 Main St., Salem, N.H. Burial was in Pine Grove Cemetery.

Medical Lecture
At College

Lawrence General Hospital's fall public Medical Lecture Series will be held in the McQuade Library auditorium at Merrimack College, North Andover. Sponsored by the hospital's medical staff, this series is free.

The goal of the series is to provide useful medical information to the public. The general theme for the entire series is "Your Health: It's in Your Hands."

At the opening lecture on Sept. 21 at 7:30 p.m., Dr. Robert Nelken, Andover pediatrician, will discuss "Sneezles and Measles and other Childhood Illnesses." Dr. Nina E. Scarito, Lawrence obstetrician and gynecologist who lives in Methuen, will discuss "Close Encounters with the Opposite Sex" on Oct. 19. On Nov. 16, Dr. Jose Silva of Hampstead, N.H., director of emergency services at the hospital, will discuss "Winter Health."

Refreshments will be available.

Reuse

town meeting this fall, voters should find themselves contemplating "a very simple decision," according to Spiegel — even though they would be dealing with "a new concept in government financing."

The reuse committee would present estimates on how much it would cost Andover to renovate the building, and how much it would cost to let a private developer do it. Town meeting could then make its decision based on "the bottom-line cost to the town."

Apart from the savings possible by selling the EJH wings to a developer for renovation, Spiegel is excited about the renovation project itself. By next fall the town and school offices now scattered all over town will be consolidated in those two wings, and that centralization will permit "all sorts of economies that will add up to substantial savings."

"That in itself is financial justification for the reuse project," the committee chairman said. "Within a year's time we will have a modern office building with all town functions accommodated — and we will be using some buildings that people thought would probably be torn down."

"The more a man possesses over and above what he uses, the more care-worn he becomes."

392 Receive Abatements; More Being Reviewed

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Nearly 400 Andover taxpayers have received welcome news in their mailboxes this summer: abatements on their property taxes, the result of appeals on their new assessments to the Board of Assessors.

Assessor William Russell said this week that of 1,100 appeals to the assessors, the board has decided approximately 725 cases since May, and has granted abatements to 392 property-owners. Those abatements add up to $95,270 in tax dollars, he explained.

Another 375 appeals are still pending, he added.

The taxpayers whose appeals have been denied — about 40 percent of the cases decided to date — have three months from the time they receive their notice of denial to appeal the town decision to the state Appellate Tax Board, the assessor pointed out.

The assessors have been reviewing the appeals all summer, Russell indicated, and some notices went out as early as May; most, however, have been mailed out since July. "We certainly have been working overtime since April with the hearings, and with processing the applications."

No matter which way the assessors' decision goes, each property-owner will be notified, Russell said. Good news will come in the form of an abatement certificate; bad news, in the form of a denial notice.

The assessors noticed no trends in reasons for abatements of denials, he said. "We've taken each case individually and analyzed the particular property, trying to look at the total value, and then the assessment in comparison with neighboring properties and any similar properties that might have been brought to our attention."

"We have taken the time to study each case individually," Russell added. "We have been very careful about any abatements granted, and denials as well. We've been trying to treat everyone fairly and equitably."

A few residents have called the assessors' office with questions after receiving their notices, and the assessors do not always have time to explain their decisions in detail, he said.

But they have tried to emphasize that if taxpayers feel a decision was unfair — because their appeal was denied, or because they consider the abatement too small — they can appeal the decision to the Appellate Tax Board, but must do so within three months.

Hundreds of taxpayers decided to appeal their new assessments to the board of assessors last spring, after PRC Jacobs of Virginia completed its 100 percent revaluation of all town property.

What Was Once Their Tree...

Charlie and Edith Gendron, 200-202 North Main St., overlook what remains of a maple tree that stood next to their house for several years and dates back to the late 1800's.

The Demise Of The Maples

By John P. Sawyer

There were once six big maples along the street, providing shade and beauty to the neighborhood, according to Charlie Gendron, 200-202 North Main St.

Now they are gone.

And perhaps the neighborhood is too busy to notice.

"We had the only remaining tree left in the neighborhood," says Mrs. Edith Gendron.

But this week, the Gendrons faced reality and took down the ailing tree that had stood next to their house since they bought the home 25 years ago. The Gendrons' tree, like the others that once dotted North Main Street, had stood 60 feet tall and dated back to the late 1800's. And like the others, it eventually died out, perhaps from disease and perhaps from old age.

"We figured we had no choice," explains Mr. Gendron, noting tree limbs were becoming a hazard to pedestrians and passing automobiles. "This one was the last one to go."

It lies in pieces on the Gendrons front lawn, and the neighborhood will never really be the same.

"It's probably been standing there for a century," says Mrs. Gendron. "A century of history has been reduced to firewood."

The job took one hour.

"We just felt sad. We've been looking at that tree for 25 years," she says. "I just feel bad about all the years it's been standing there."

Mr. Gendron says it was a "part of our life in Andover." His wife explains that taking the tree down was like tearing down a room in the house. "It was a part of our house," she says.

When the Gendrons bought their home 25 years ago, North Main Street was a different place — farmland across the street, no Shawsheen Plaza. Now it's gone commercial. The Gendrons' home is like an island surrounded by parking lots, revitalized factory buildings, gasoline stations, grocery stores and fast food places.

But Mr. Gendron still says Andover is the "nicest" town you could find in Massachusetts.

"You can't stop progress," he says.

But things have changed.

And the trees are gone.

Townsman Has New Publisher

Irving E. Rogers, Jr., who has been president of the Andover Publishing Co., has been named publisher of the Andover Townsman, succeeding his father, Irving E. Rogers, Sr., who retired.

The move coincides with the retirement of Mr. Rogers, Sr., as co-publisher of the Lawrence Eagle-Tribune, turning the duties of publisher of the newspaper over to his son who had shared the responsibility for the past seven years as co-publisher.

Mr. Rogers, Sr. purchased the Andover Townsman on February 23, 1949.

The senior Rogers will continue an active role in the operation of the newspapers as chairman of the board.

Irving E. Rogers, Jr., has served for many years with the newspaper, as general manager for 22 years and co-publisher since 1975. In addition to being president and director of the Andover Publishing Company, he serves in a similar capacity at the Lawrence Eagle-Tribune and Consolidated Press, Inc. (Eagle-Tribune Printing).

Mr. Rogers, Sr., has devoted considerable time to community betterment, supporting such institutions as Bon Secours Hospital and the Lawrence Boys Club. He is administrator of the Rogers Family Foundation, a charitable trust, started in 1975 and which has given over $1 million to assist area institutions and groups.

Both are Andover residents.

Municipal Offices Closed

Town Hall, the Shawsheen School building, the Essex Street theatre building and all other town offices will be closed all day Monday, Sept. 6, for the Labor Day holiday.

Town and school offices will open at their regular hours on Tuesday morning.

Andover Art Gallery Owner Retains An Andover Address

By Sue Aucella Deacon

The Andover Gallery of Fine Art has found a new home, and will not have to leave Andover for lack of a suitable new location, as owner Howard Yezerski had feared earlier this year.

"Everyone was telling me that things always work out for the best," the gallery owner said Tuesday, "and it seems to have worked out that way."

Yezerski, along with Andover realtor Lee Dodd and Andover attorney Charles "Bucky" Dalton, passed papers on the Frederick E. Allen and Son Funeral Home property at 68 Park St. Monday. Final legal details of the sale were settled on Tuesday, Yezerski said.

The three are now equal partners in the property, which consists of the funeral home building, a barn located behind it, a garage and parking area. The art gallery will take over the barn, while Dodd and Dalton will move their offices into the main building. Eventually the garage will be converted into office space as well, according to Dodd.

Yezerski has operated his three-story gallery and a frame shop at 91 North Main St. since he came to Andover in 1968. He has been searching for a new location since early last spring, and applied to the Zoning Board of Appeals for a variance to operate the gallery out of his home at 75 Park St.

When the ZBA denied that variance in May, Yezerski began to lose hope that he could keep the gallery in Andover, since he had been unable to find affordable space to lease in town.

He now finds it "somewhat ironic" that the gallery has landed at 68 Park, Yezerski said — right across the street from his home. But at the time of his appeal to the zoning board, he didn't know the funeral home property was available, he said. And even after Lee Dodd approached him with her idea of a three-way ownership, it took two months to "really put it together."

"Lee Dodd put the deal together," Yezerski said. "It was through her efforts that the thing materialized at all."

The realtor thought of both Yezerski and Dalton when she learned the Allen property was up for sale, she said yesterday. (The Allen Home will continue to operate in Lawrence.) "I knew Howard was looking, and Bucky was looking, and I've always wanted to own my own office." Bringing in two partners made the property affordable for all of them, she said.

Dodd called the property "wonderful — I love old houses. I think this will be great."

"It's an excellent commercial property," Atty. Dalton said yesterday. "I have been looking for some time, because I need more space and because I would like to own instead of rent. This filled a common need for the three of us, and the price was right."

The barn, where the gallery will be located, includes 1,300 square feet on the main floor, and potential use of another 625 square feet on the second floor. Noting that he now has 1,800 square feet spread over three floors in his current quarters, Yezerski said the new gallery will offer "much better hanging space. The space itself is going to be much nicer space — we're going to fix it up the way we want it right from the beginning."

The gallery will also have more parking space at its new location, he said, calling his current parking situation on North Main Street "a problem."

The Park Street property is also "much, much better" than opening the gallery in his home would have been, Yezerski added. "There's no question that this is a tremen-

Surgical Day Care Center Sought For Stevens Street Site

By John P. Sawyer

Lawrence General Hospital was scheduled yesterday to file for a certificate of need with the state Department of Public Health to locate an ambulatory surgical day care center at the Andover Mills Research Center, Stevens Street, according to Martha Wood, LGH director of public relations.

A certificate of need is all that stands in the way of a similar center, "Doctors Park II," to be located next to Doctors Park I on Haverhill Street. That project received Conservation Commission approval last week and the go-ahead from the Zoning Board of Appeals before that.

The location of LGH's proposed ambulatory surgical day care center is already properly zoned, and no problems are expected, according to Wood.

The center, planned to make medical care more accessible and cost-effective, would provide same-day care for elective, and not emergency surgery.

"Since 1974, LGH has operated a busy hospital-based surgical day care program which has served area residents on a one-day basis," says Alton Noyes, of Andover, LGH executive director.

The proposed center would be an extension of the present hospital-based program, allowing LGH to serve area residents more expeditiously and provide surgical services more cost-effectively for many specific procedures.

"The ambulatory surgical center is also important in relieving intense pressure for inpatient beds and elective surgery at the hospital," says Noyes, who explains that for the past several months, LGH has "constantly and routinely been forced to cancel or postpone elective surgery."

The designation of LGH as the first trauma center in the Merrimack Valley will further add to the pressure on bed needs and the surgical department, he adds.

Noyes says the development of the proposed center has involved months of planning and investigating by staff and trustees, for which he is grateful.

Meanwhile, the proposed Doctors Park II, a walk-in health and out-patient surgical day care center planned for Haverhill Street, got a boost last week in the form of Conservation Commission approval.

Drainage from Doctors Park I and from the proposed new Doctors Park II had been questioned. But drainage was re-routed and a retention pond moved, so that water problems would not increase and maybe be lessened.

Drs. Joseph R. Rokous and Richard Katz are two of nine doctors who would operate Doctors Park II, 140 Haverhill St., which would also include office space.

The Andover Zoning Appeals Board recently granted a special permit to construct the center — one-third of which will be an ambulatory care and surgical center and two-thirds of which will be office suites for general medicine practices and specialties.

The ambulatory care service would be similar to the out-patient service of a hospital's emergency room, except that the center will not take ambulance patients on an emergency basis. The center would not involve overnight hospitalization.

The Zoning Appeals Board restricted the hours of the center to 7 a.m. to 9:30 p.m., and no Sunday openings.

Katz told the Board that Doctors Park II would help satisfy a need in the area for an ambulatory and surgical center and would be convenient for Andover area residents. He said services would be less expensive than those offered at local hospitals.

How Did Your Garden Grow?

The end of summer can be a joyous time for those who have planted, watered, and toiled in their gardens all spring and summer. The fresh vegetables and fruits are the perfect rewards for these gardeners. This year, the combination of a very rainy June and too many cold nights will slow down the ripening of tomatoes, but most of the other garden goodies are finding a place on kitchen tables at every meal. Photos clockwise from top left: Tomatoes in Sue Dietzel's garden grow out of a compost bin to encourage the roots to grow under the moist, rich compost; Jennifer Kasper, 89 Holt Road, eyes a ripe peach in her fruit garden; Sue Dietzel, 40 Beacon St., cuts a ripe Kuta squash; A popsicle stick marks cukes in the sun; Pat Kasper, 89 Holt Road, digs down for new potatoes, and doesn't come up empty handed (top photo); Onions pop up out of the earth ripe and ready; A plentiful rhubarb plant grows in the Kasper's garden; Harold Livingston, 107 Abbot St., picks zucchini in the garden which he has tended for over 60 years.

Exciting Times

Opening of a new school building is always an exciting time, what with the newness of the structure, its materials and opportunities.

But, when the doors of the new Doherty Junior High are thrown open to students next Thursday morning, it will represent more than just the beginning of a new educational facility, it will present opportunities for development in Andover which even the word exciting seems an understatement.

The closed East Junior High will then become eligible for development, which could lead to further development for the town hall, library and Shawsheen school buildings, or in, general, some major alterations for Downtown Andover.

That the new junior high is opening on time is a credit to workmen and the town's construction supervisors and represents an accomplishment in itself. It is the culmination of over a decade of struggling, planning and debating through a number of town meetings to upgrade the town's secondary educational facilities.

And, while the years of planning may have represented additional costs in the long run, it appears that the final decision is one which will insure that Andover's young people will have adequate facilities for many years to come.

But, looking ahead, and away from school projects for a moment, it is impressive the manner in which the East Junior High Reuse committee is proceeding with planning for the town's takeover of the structure.

The goal is to centralize the town's municipal-school offices. The reuse group is proceeding with a plan which would realize that goal in a manner most opportune to the taxpayers.

It will require town meeting approval, once all the details are assembled and ready for presentation, hopefully as early as October.

If approved, it would allow the project to proceed without concern about caring for the vacant structure during the upcoming winter months.

Also triggered by such approval would be the planning of what to do with the town hall which would probably become available for office and commercial space.

Then, the improvements to Memorial Hall Library, badly needed and patiently awaited by library trustees and patrons. The project already has a potential boost through the possible construction of a parking garage at the base of the library addition, funded in part through $850,000 in state funds.

The commentary here, in no way indicates a total blanket approval for the projects now in the planning stage.

But, initial observation of the possibilities indicates that Andover is on the threshold of some rather innovative planning for a downtown area which has always been a pleasant place to visit and shop.

Add to that the prospect of accomplishing major alterations to the downtown area without strapping the taxpayers, and the total development takes on an even brighter appearance.

It's really the stuff of which dreams are made and hopefully an October town meeting could provide Andoverites with a futuristic picture brighter than the fall foliage which it will accompany.

Abstract?

It may be a landscape in the making, but when an artist leaves the easel unattended in this Martha's Vineyard scene, does the piece become an abstract?

Tennis Courts
Work Is Great

Ms. Joan Pearson, Director
Comm. Relations and Recreations Depts.
Shawsheen School
Shawsheen, MA 01810
Dear Joan,

I returned home from camp around July 21 and was amazed at what I saw at the junior and senior high tennis courts. The orientation had been accomplished, the fences were being painted, and although the backboards were still up, the change was unmistakable. Then, when I finally returned home last Tuesday, the change was even more startling.

The fence painting is almost completed, the fences fixed by putting loam or sod around the fence bottoms to prevent balls from rolling out from under, heavy-duty hasps were on the gates, and in short, it looks like a completely new facility.

What a pity this couldn't have been many years ago when the cost would have been so much lower, and yet, what has been accomplished for the money is still a pretty good bargain. All that remains now is for the townspeople who use these courts to realize that it is no longer "a dump" but a facility to be proud of and treat it as such, like not dropping their tennis can covers on the courts, but in the barrels that I am sure you will soon have available, one in every corner.

You are to be congratulated on this, as well as your assistant who help with the planning and execution. Congratulations are also in order for the Board of Selectmen who finally realized the problem and put forth the article in the last Town Warrant to provide the funds for this startling change.

I have a few ideas on the space left by the removal of one court and these are enclosed in an additional note for your perusal. However, one more thing comes to mind. Andover now has the largest "good" facility of any high school in the state with 14 courts in good condition. I suggest you consider the idea of inviting the Massachusetts Interscholastic Athletic Association to hold their Region II Eastern Mass. championships tournament at the Andover facility next May 1983. After all, we have been the host city for the Class track and field championships, the All-State championships in track and why not now show what we have by hosting the tennis championships. If I can supply you with information on this, please advise.

In the meantime, keep up the good work.

For Those Of Us Who Are Older

By Janet D. Lake

Because Monday, Sept. 6, is Labor Day, the senior center—The Haven—will be closed all day.

You need to watch for the new newsletter which should reach you sometime during the second week of September. It has a new format, as well as all kinds of useful information regarding Andover's elder residents and their activities. This issue of the newsletter will be sent via the mail to all residents over 60. Read it! You'll enjoy what you learn.

Class registration will be September 15 for the fall courses to be given at The Haven. Details will be found in the aforementioned newsletter as well as the Department of Community Services' bulletin. There is sure to be something that is right up your alley. Come on down and enjoy the fun at the senior center.

There will be a fish and chip luncheon at the center September 13. Tickets are required to be purchased in advance, and the price of $4.50 includes luncheon and entertainment. There will be a band to play good music, as well as a film. Drop by soon and get your tickets.

The second bus to the Eastern States Exposition is filling fast. It can not be too firmly stressed that reservations are required for this special trip jointly sponsored by the Council on Aging and the Andover Chapter of the Appalachian Mountain Club. Everyone intending to go must sign up through the senior center. You can not show up the date of the trip and expect to go. Cost for the bus and entry into the Exposition is $10. You may bring your own picnic lunch or buy food at one of the many food stands at the fair, but, don't delay! Remember the date, Sunday, Sept. 19.

If you like to do your travelling via armchair, don't forget the next in the Travelog series, Thursday, Sept. 9, at 2 o'clock when the people at The Haven will take you to visit our neighbor, Vermont. The program is free.

The September 7 session of the mini-clinic will be held at The Haven. The following week, Sept. 14, it will be at Chestnut Court. You must call the Health Department this week if you want an appointment for September 7, since they, too, will be closed on Monday because of Labor Day.

WEEKLY SPECIAL

Corporate bigwigs prosper
while workers are laid offBy Jack Anderson and Joe Spear

WASHINGTON -- Interest rates have dropped, stock prices have rebounded and the brokers on Wall Street are feeling better. But across the country, 10,800,000 Americans still can't find work.

We've been investigating some of the layoffs that have swollen the ranks of the unemployed and we've discovered that corporations don't always practice the economies they enforce on their workers. Many corporate executives have raised their own salaries at the same time that they've been firing underlings. Here are just a few examples:

-- General Electric has laid off 18,500 workers because of declining sales. But last year, the board's two vice chairmen -- John Burlingame and Edward Hood Jr. -- each collected $100,000 raises. They now earn $650,000 a year.

-- Hard times in the auto industry have cut into the profits of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, and this has cost the jobs of 2,483 employees. But John Nevin moved up last year from president to chairman of Firestone and got a raise of $577,000 in salary and benefits. Last year, he made almost $1 million.

-- The Boeing company has been begging for government contracts to save jobs. Its spokesmen have cried loudly that 3,000 workers were laid off last year, that another 6,000 employees may have to be fired this year. But the spokesmen were quiet about the fat raises that the top executives received. For instance, the board chairman, T.A. Wilson, pulled down an extra $100,000 in salary and benefits. His total take was close to $1 million.

The corporations, of course, have their side of the story. Spokesmen for Boeing, Firestone and General Electric told our associate Peter Grant that their firms have to pay big salaries to keep good executives.

But not all companies agree. U.S. Steel, for example, has just imposed on all its employees -- from the board chairman to the millhands -- a five percent salary cut.

VOLCKER WILL GO: President Reagan is holding a powerful trump card which he will play next year to shape the nation's economic course more to his liking. In mid-summer of 1983, the tenure of Paul Volcker as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board expires and Reagan can appoint his own man.

That appointment will enable the president to leave an indelible imprint on the nation's economy even if he doesn't decide to run for a second term. Federal Reserve Board chairmen exercise tremendous independent authority, even though they are presidential appointees.

Volcker and the president have failed to see eye to eye on how to handle the troublesome mix of inflation, recession, high interest and low employment. Volcker, a Jimmy Carter appointee, has pursued a cautious, tight-money policy which the Reaganites blame for the high interest rates that have kept the economy stagnant.

When Volcker's chairmanship ends, Reagan unquestionably will select a successor who is far more sympathetic to the White House view. The new chairman would serve until at least 1989.

Administration officials are already sending signals that Volcker's reign as the nation's banking boss will end. They're designing legislation that would curb the powers of the Fed chairman even before his term is up.

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES: Labor Secretary Ray Donovan isn't out of the woods yet, even though special prosecutor Leon Silverman reported two months ago there was no evidence he had committed any wrongdoing or had knowing ties to organized crime. Albert Facchiano, a convicted loan shark and Mafia family member, has been questioned by a grand jury and Silverman on allegations he had meetings with the Reagan Cabinet member when the latter was head of a New York and New Jersey construction firm.

-- The Sunday heroes of professional football are being tarred with charges of drug peddling and use of illegal narcotics. The National Football League is trying to keep a lid on the situation, but the Justice Department currently has grand jury inquiries going on in New Orleans and Detroit involving the Saints and the Lions. There have been drug abuse arrests of former pro players in Atlanta and Miami. NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle and baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn were told at a closed-door meeting with Rep. Leo Zeferetti, D-N.Y., head of a House narcotics subcommittee, that Congress is keeping a sharp eye on the potentially scandalous developments.

Creative Drama

Creative Drama, an exciting concept in childhood education, is what the Boston Children's Theatre is all about.

Registration for classes will be Sept. 13-17 from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. with classes beginning the week of Sept. 20. Children ages 8 to 17 are eligible to take the classes which are offered at the beginner, intermediate and advanced levels.

Courses will include improvisation, pantomime, speech and work on scenes. Through creative drama a child learns to widen his or her potential and to express ideas through movement and sound.

The casts for the winter theatre productions at New England Life Hall in Boston are chosen from the drama classes as are the casts and crews for all productions.

In most homes the water heater is the second largest user of energy. It generally consists of a large tank that sits in the basement or storage area and gobbles electricity, gas or oil. Now, a water heating system that is already in wide use in Europe is becoming popular in this country. A tankless water heater heats water as it passes through a tightly wound coil of pipe. Since water is only heated as it is used, it reduces heat loss during storage. Another major benefit of the tankless system is that it is very small enough to be able to be located very close to the point of use.

Are you unhappy with the way your water flows in your kitchen and bath? Is it time you ripped down the whole structure and started from scratch? Well, don't! Come see WINDSOR KITCHENS first. With 12 years of experience serving Merrimack Valley, we'll take the time to sit with you and try to find the answers to your problems. You will find us at 1181 Boston Rd. in Ward Hill where we are open Mon. Thurs. 9-5:30, Fri. till 8, Sat. till 5, eves. by appt. and our phone is 372-3444. We'll erase all your worries. We also wish you all a happy and safe Labor Day weekend and ask you drive carefully.

Babe Ruth All-Stars Win Saugus Tourney

By Rick Harrison

The Andover Babe Ruth Gold and Blue baseball teams wrapped up their 1982 seasons in impressive fashion last week with the 13-year-old All-Stars winning the Saugus Invitational Tournament and the 14-15 Stars hammering the Lawrence Senior Little League champion Central Padres.

The 13s earned the Saugus championship the hard way, dropping a tough 4-3 decision to Medford National before bouncing back to edge that same team 2-1 in the title game at Stackpole Field.

Against the Central Padres, who had issued a challenge to the Gold-Blue squad, Andover pounded out 17 solid hits enroute to an overpowering 20-3 decision under the lights at Mark Devlin Field.

Ted Cormier and Bill Blackwell were named co-winners of the Most Valuable Player award at the Saugus Tournament, as Gold-Blue finished 4-1 in the double-elimination event while playing four games decided by one run and a fifth settled by a two-run margin.

In earlier tournament action Andover edged Medford American 9-7, Saugus 4-3, and Medford National 8-7.

The older Gold-Blue crew won four of the six games it played together, also defeating teams from Waltham 9-3, Methuen 5-1, and Malden 5-0, while bowing to Medford American 12-5 and Medford National 4-2.

Saugus Tournament

Medford National, 4-3

Medford National, which ended with a 5-2 tourney record, climbed out of the loser's bracket to force Andover into a winner-take-all final.

The 4-3 loss was a frustrating one, with Gold-Blue leaving 14 runners stranded and righthander Chris Colsia going unrewarded for his complete game effort.

The contest went extra innings, with Medford National scoring an unearned run in the bottom of the eighth to snap the 3-3 deadlock.

Colsia, who also fired a complete-game victory against Saugus, allowed seven hits while striking out seven and allowing four. Three of the four Medford runs against him were unearned.

Andover did all its scoring in the top of the first to grab a quick 3-0 lead, but Medford National righthander Paul Bartalini came on to shut the door and work his way out of numerous jams.

Bartalini, named the Most Valuable Pitcher for the tourney after hurling 22 innings and permitting just one run, pitched the 1980 Medford National Little League team within one victory of the World Series in Williamsport as that team won the New England championship before bowing in the finals of the Eastern Regionals at Newburg, N.Y.

Coach Massimini, who was named "Coach of the Year" in the Big East Conference and the Widmer Cup "Coach of the Year" after directing his 1981-82 Wildcats to a Big East Conference regular season championship, the Eastern Regional finals

Gold-Blue touched Bartalini for seven hits, and he also walked six, but he struck out 10 and came up with the big pitch time and again.

Bill Blackwell led the Andover first with a walk and came around to score on Bob St. Louis' double to leftfield. Colsia walked, a passed ball and wild pitch plated St. Louis, and then Ted Cormier singled him home.

That was all for Andover, however, as the locals left the bases loaded in the third and sixth and stranded runners at second and third in the second and fifth innings.

Medford National scored once in the first on a walk to Chris Bartalini and singles by Bob McDougall and Dave Daddio.

Medford closed the gap to 3-2 in the fourth when Jeff Sacco singled to rightfield, took second on a bunt, stole third and scored on Mike Bartalini's infield out.

They tied it 3-3 in the fifth as Chris and Paul Bartalini lashed consecutive one-out singles, and McDougall's infield bouncer produced a throwing error. Paul Bartalini later tried to steal home, but was thrown out.

In the last of the eighth Daddio singled to left, moved to second on a balk, took third on Sacco's roller to the mound, and scored when Mike Reardon lifted a flyball down the leftfield line and the Gold-Blue outfielder dropped the ball.

Andover loaded the bases in the second on a walk to Jeff Smith, a hit batsman (St. Louis) and an error. But Bartalini escaped with a strikeout.

In the third Kurt Burzlaff and Earl Abdoo laced leadoff singles. Smith walked again, but a tapper to the mound and a strikeout ended this bid.

Cormier belted a two-out double in the fourth and was stranded, while in the fifth Burzlaff singled and Matt Shine walked before Blackwell popped out to short.

In the Andover sixth Colsia and Cormier slapped one-out singles. Steve Rikeman walked, but again Bartalini escaped with a strikeout and a sharp Abdoo grounder to shortstop.

Blackwell singled and stole second base in the seventh, while

Chiropractic and Back Pain

At some time in life, back pain probably affects eighty percent of the members of the human race. The reasons for this are myriad, but fortunately the vast majority of low back discomforts are of a "mechanical" origin. This is because the spine which is entrusted with protecting the spinal cord (a complex network of nerves that connects the brain with the remainder of the body) contains twenty-four movable portions called vertebrae. The flexibility of the spine can allow misalignment to occur and this leads to irritation of the corresponding nerves in the cord and subsequent back pain. When properly evaluated, back pain will respond to treatment directed toward correction of the mechanical impairment.

This is precisely the reason that chiropractic care proves to be so effective in treating back pain. The doctor of chiropractic is a spine specialist and as such is uniquely qualified to evaluate and treat such problems.

Colsia drew a leadoff walk and stole second in the eight, but Gold-Blue came up empty.

Cormier finished the contest 3-for-5 and Burzlaff went 2-for-4.

Andover, 2-1

Bill Blackwell fashioned a clutch five-hitter, walking two and whiffing three as Gold-Blue captured the tournament title in a nailbiter.

Tough-luck loser Jeff Sacco, a lefthander whose off-speed stuff bothered Andover, surrendered just three hits while fanning seven and walking three.

Once again the champs did all their offensive work in the first inning. Blackwell struck out, but reached first safely when the ball skipped past the catcher. Bob St. Louis singled, and Chris Colsia laid down a bunt with all runners safe when the throw to third base was too late.

Steve Rikeman lofted a one-out fly to shallow centerfield, and when the ball dropped, Blackwell scored and Colsia was forced at second.

Kurt Burzlaff's sharp grounder to short was misplayed as St.

Louis raced across with what proved to be the winning run.

Gold-Blue's only other serious threat occurred in the second when Gerry Nassif singled to leftfield, and consecutive one-out walks were issued to Blackwell and St. Louis. Colsia then lined out to second base, and Ted Cormier's potential bases-clearing drive to left was snagged on the run by Chris Bartalini.

Andover managed just two other runners, Blackwell slamming a two-out double off the rightfield fence in the fourth and Earl Abdoo drawing a one-out walk in the bottom of the sixth.

Medford National threatened in the first when Mike Bartalini walked and Paul Bartalini (3-for-3) rapped a single, while in the third the same pair slapped a two-out single and double, respectively, before Bob McDougall's crisp bouncer up the middle was handled nicely at the mound by Blackwell.

The lone Medford National run came in the top of the fifth. Jim Insogna reached on a one-out error and scored when Paul Bartalini tripled to leftfield.

Some fine hustle by leftfielder Kurt Burzlaff prevented the hit from being a homerun, and moments later he saved the game again with a tumbling catch of a sky-high fly by McDougall.

Second baseman Ray Rourke added some timely defense in the sixth, picking off a soft liner and doubling up a Medford National runner at first to end the inning.

Blackwell retired Medford National in easy 1-2-3 order in the seventh.

Burzlaff led the Andover Gold-Blue crew in batting for the tourney with a .462 average, while Bob St. Louis hit .456, Ted Cormier .444, Steve Rikeman .333 and bill Blackwell .294.

Rikeman added eight RBI and Cormier five.

Andover, 20-3

It was simply no contest as the older Gold-Blue team clubbed the Central Padres, who had posted a 17-4 regular season record in their league.

Mark Grams, who hiked his 1982 record to a superb 10-2, pitched the first five innings for the winners. He allowed four singles, walked one and struck out nine.

Bill Weidman (8-1 record with two saves) finished up with two frames of two-hit pitchings, fanning five and alking none. Weidman struck out the side on 11 pitches in the bottom of the seventh.

All three Central Padres' runs were unearned.

Andover struck for five runs in the first, three in the second, six in the third and six more in the fifth.

Billy Lane led the offensive assault with a perfect 4-for-4 night, including a double.

Shane Smith, playing his first game in a month after fracturing the knuckle on the little finger of his left hand, showed no ill effects as he hit the ball hard five straight times and went 3-for-5.

Bob Rikeman contributed three hits, including a double, Grams was 2-for-5 with a double, John Leahy slapped a double and single and scored three runs, John Duffy doubled and singles were drilled by Pete Quintal and Mike Surette.

Lane and Grams also scored three runs apiece, Smith and Mark Doherty crossed the plate twice each, and defensive standouts were Smith at third base and Lane at the unfamiliar first base position for two innings.

Gymnastics

Coordination, flexibility, skill development, physical fitness and self-confidence is the area's stressed by the coaching staff of Reading Gymnastics Academy's new fall eight-week program.

Session 1 will begin Sept. 13 with a limited enrollment of only eight students per instructor. A 12-week course is offered for high school competitors.

RGA features all new equipment, from the latest AMF spring reflex floor exercise area to overhead spotting apparatus. The gymnasium is located in the former Woburn Street Lower School, 172 Woburn St. which has been remodeled to accommodate the gym.

The coaching staff is headed by Lori Rosati of Billerica, formerly of Muriel Grossfelds in Connecticut, and Cindy Brown of Burlington, former head coach of North Shore School of Gymnastics. Last year RGA's team took first place in their MAGIC league division.

dous opportunity — that's the only way I can look at it."

Yezerksi plans to spend the next month in transition, moving out of his current space while completing renovations at the barn. The barn, "a pretty building", needs "a lot of work," but it already includes some interior walls, and the outside walls have been insulated.

The owner hopes to open the barn for business the first week of October, without missing a day's work. "We're not going to close at all — we're going to close here (at North Main Street) one weekend, and open up there the next week."

Dodd and Dalton also plan to move into their new offices by Oct. 1. Lee Dodd Realty is now located at 30 Park St.; the offices of Dalton, Dalton and Bryden are at 125 Main St.

The house, including 2,500 square feet, will need less extensive renovations than the barn. Dodd noted — chiefly to create offices, and bring the building up to state building and safety codes. Dalton said the building is "in very good shape. It's a nice solid structure."

Dodd's offices will be located on the first floor, where two more offices will be offered for rent. Dalton's offices will be at the front of the second floor, and two offices will also be available for rent on that floor.

The three plan to "condo-ize" the property within a year, Yezerksi said, splitting it into a two-way condominium ownership. He will own the barn, and Dodd and Dalton will own the house.

Looking back over an "emotional year of peaks and valleys" — with the high point a retrospective exhibit at the Addison Gallery at Phillips Academy last fall, and the low point the prospect of leaving town — Yezerksi said he is now "looking forward to this coming year."

"We were really very lucky that it turned out the way it did."

The pearl has been called the purest of gems, because it requires neither cutting nor polishing.

Appellate Tax Board Finds In Favor Of Assessors

The state Appellate Tax Board has settled a real estate tax appeal in favor of the town of Andover, and against an Indian Ridge couple.

Thomas R. and Katherine E. Bateman of 12 Algonquin Ave. applied to the Board of Assessors for an abatement of their real estate taxes for fiscal 1980 and 1981. Their property, a two-story colonial house on a 33,001 square-foot lot, was assessed at $59,200 for those two years.

The Bateman's tax bill for 1980, at a $64 tax rate, was $3,788.80; for 1981, at a $66 rate, their bill was $3,907.20. Those bills represent pre-100 percent revaluation tax rates.

According to Assessor William Russell, the Batemans argued that their property was over-valued in comparison with other properties located throughout the town, "mostly older buildings."

The assessors denied the request for an abatement because, Russell said, they believed the valuation was "fair and equitable." The board did not feel it was over-assessed.

The property-owners then appealed that local decision to the state tax board, appearing at a hearing on March 10 of this year. Russell testified for the assessors at that hearing, while Town Counsel Alfred Daniels represented the town.

The tax board handed down its decision upholding the assessors' denial this week.

Townpeople often ask the assessors for advice on appealing their assessments. Russell noted, adding that it is difficult for the assessors to offer such advice. The board maintains that once it has made a determination on a property, that property has been assessed at fair market value, he explained.

The final decision, however, belongs with the Appellate Tax Board, if taxpayers choose to appeal the assessors' determination.

Both at the local and at the state level, property tax officials now find themselves deluged with appeals of new 100 percent revaluations. Andover's assessors have been reviewing appeals all summer, Russell said, while the state board is now considering appeals from communities all across the Commonwealth.

The only survivor of the Battle of Little Big Horn, where Custer made his last stand, was the horse Comanche, whose embalmed body now stands on display at the University of Kansas.

The first submarine was a leather-covered rowboat which Cornelius van Drebbel, a Dutch scientist, demonstrated in England in about 1620.

Govern in her re-election bid. "Your ability displayed during your first term, particularly your ability to grasp the many transportation problems facing this Commonwealth, and the manner you so diligently dealt with these important matters, impressed many and certainly was an asset to your district," said Harold G. Malone, Massachusetts State Director of the UTU in his letter notifying Senator McGovern of the union's endorsement.

Senator McGovern expressed her pleasure at receiving these labor endorsements and said, "So much of what we do in the Legislature directly affects the lives of the workingmen and women of the Commonwealth. I am pleased that these labor organizations have recognized my efforts on their behalf in my first term in the Senate. I will continue to keep the view of the working men and women of my district in mind when issues come before me in the Senate. I appreciate the support of labor and am grateful for this recognition of my efforts."

Senator McGovern has already received the support of the Tewksbury Police Association, IBPO-Local 352, the state-wide Massachusetts AFL-CIO and the Professional Firefighters of Massachusetts.

March Of Dimes

Merrimack Valley Chapter of the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation will hold the 1982 annual meeting Thursday, Sept. 9, at the Russell Mill Swim & Tennis Club, 160 Mill Road, Chelmsford.

Guests and their families will have the use of the pool, tennis courts and playground starting at 4 p.m. A cookout will be served at 5:30. The business meeting will start at 7 p.m.

A panel of chapter volunteers, mother, teacher and physician will present an overview of programs provided by the Merrimack Valley Chapter. The program will be followed by election of the 1982-83 executive committee and chapter membership. Special recognition will be given to outstanding volunteers.

Reservations are required by Monday, Sept. 6.

For further information, call March of Dimes in Andover.

Annual Meeting

Shareholders were told of changes in company strategy as Paychex, a nationwide payroll service with a local office at 400 West Cummings Park, Woburn, hosted its annual meeting in Rochester, N.Y., Thursday, Aug. 19.

A new emphasis on profitability is the key to this strategy, according to Tom Golisano, president of the 11-year-old payroll service firm.

Paychex management has made the decision to increase profitability by developing business in existing markets rather than venture into new markets.

But while profitability is emphasized, growth will continue to occur in some markets. The payroll firm has announced its intention of opening processing centers in San Antonio, Jacksonville, Nashville and Salt Lake City over the next 12 months.

Shareholders at the meeting were also told of plans to purchase $3 million in new computer hardware—a move expected to boost productivity and improve the quality of service.

Unemployment Up

The New England unemployment rate increased substantially in May. However, nonagricultural employment decreased very little and employment in durable goods manufacturing increased, albeit slightly, for the first time in many months. Manufacturing output increased, despite a decline in the average factory workweek; but construction activity, as measured by contract awards, declined. However, relative to May a year ago, almost all indicators show a marked deterioration in the regional economy. The one positive development has been the slowing in the rate of inflation. The unemployment rate for New England has increased to 8.5 percent, well below the U.S. rate of 9.5 percent, the New England rate increased considerably more in May than the national rate. The greatest increases were in the states of Maine, where unemployment rose from 8.3 percent to 9.1 percent, and in Massachusetts, where it increased from 8.8 percent to 10.1 percent.

Bernini Exhibit

"Drawings by Gianlorenzo Bernini from the Museum der Bildenden Künste, Leipzig," an exhibition of 17th-century Italian Baroque sculpture and architecture, are on view at the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, through Oct. 10. The works are loaned from the Museum der Bildenden Künste, Leipzig, in the German Democratic Republic, which holds one of the best collections of Bernini's drawings anywhere. This is the first time such a large number of the drawings has been exhibited outside of Leipzig, and the first time they have been in the United States. Boston is the final stop in their national tour.

Organized by The Art Museum, Princeton University, this exhibition is circulated under the auspices of the International Exhibitions Foundation, Washington, D.C. and supported in part by grants from the National Endowment for the Arts, A federal agency, and by an indemnity from the Federal Council on the Arts and Humanities.

Down The Years With The Townsman

75 Years Ago — September 1907

Mrs. V.C. Leighton will move Saturday from the Musgrove building to her new rooms in the Arco building, where she will show a complete line of toilet articles, combs, pins, etc. She will be ready to receive customers on Tuesday.

On good authority it is stated that the Boston and Northern has finally decided upon the route which its proposed line to Lowell through West Andover is to take. The new line will open up a splendid home building section in West Andover and will provide a quicker trip to Lowell.

The opening of St. John's preparatory college will occur two weeks from Tuesday. Already there are 40 applications for entrance and many more are expected before the institution opens. The first year of the school promises to be a prosperous one.

Thursday forenoon the main shaft in the brick mill of the Ballard Vale Mills Company broke down, probably causing a shut down until after Labor Day.

50 Years Ago — September 1932

Andover's police department yesterday started a war against drunken drivers, with officers appearing in the morning against three defendants in the Lawrence district court and apprehending two more alleged violators in the evening. Lately motorists have been detouring around Andover square to avoid being seen by one of the police force, but yesterday Chief George Dane instituted a patrol for the side streets.

The local post of the American Legion is going on eagerly with its plans for a bugle and drum competition to be held here Sept. 24. Competitions such as these have come into vogue as town boosters, and the post sincerely hopes that the citizens of Andover will support them in making this affair a success.

The petition for the special town meeting sponsored by a group of the unemployed is still in circulation with no definite time set as yet for presentation to the Board of Selectmen. Monday afternoon William A.G. Kidd appeared before the Board with the request that they sponsor the suggested appropriations, but the Town Fathers refused to do this. Mr. Kidd then asked them to endorse the movement but they would not do this, either.

25 Years Ago — September 1957

A special town meeting will be held Monday, Sept. 16, at 8 p.m. The Selectmen called the special session primarily at the request of the Board of Public Works. But several other articles will be included in the warrant.

A secret meeting to discuss the special town meeting, tying in the test wells and, apparently, to debate the Greenwood road water extension, was held Monday by the Board of Public Works, joined by the selectmen. BPW Chairman Allen Flye told a reporter the meeting was closed when he asked to be admitted.

Something new has been added to Main St., Andover! This week 160 outstanding teenagers from eight different states, attending the Junior Red Cross Leadership Training Center at Phillips Academy, are milling about the campus and, in-between a very busy schedule of meetings, are catching a sight of Andover's business section.

A joint contract for furnishing casualty insurance for school students has been awarded to two local agencies. Submitting identical proposals for coverage of all students were the Smart and Flagg Inc. agency and the Eugene A. Bernadin Jr. agency. Both also bid identically on the separate policy for varsity football and that policy was awarded jointly, as well.

10 Years Ago — September 1972

A committee of antagonists, lovers and other strangers of Andover's school system will huddle in a climate of learning atmosphere during the coming year to examine the structure or lack thereof of Andover's public schools.

New residents having sampled Lawrence's drinking water and gulped and older residents who just gulp at the thought of consuming Merrimack River water continue to look apprehensively toward the day when the new treatment plant at Haggett's Pond will be supplying Andover's water needs. Allaying the fears of new and old residents alike, Public Works Director Robert McQuade assured that Andover water will not bear any resemblance to the taste problems experienced in the city.

An ambitious dental health program for the public schools will be implemented in Andover this coming year. Dr. Stephen Halem, appearing before the School Committee Tuesday night, told of the program, studied and proposed by local dentists and designed to produce an instructional, rather than an observational program.

An Andover resident with educational, administrative and guidance experience has been appointed principal of a North Andover elementary school. Mrs. Irene D. Fournier, 163 Shawshen Road, appointed recently by the North Andover School Committee, has begun her new duties as principal of the Kittredge School.

Memorial Hall Library

Dahn are on display at Memorial Hall Library for the month of September. A graduate of Florida State University and a student of Harvard Graduate School of Design, Mrs. Dahn's interests in art cover a broad spectrum. Recently she has focused her attention on acrylic painting and drawings of the subject she likes best—the waterfront. Always living near the ocean, and now a resident of Hamilton, has had a great influence on her work—paintings which reflect a strong sense of design and color.

Fifteen years in art education in Florida and Massachusetts have given her an opportunity to share her interests and understanding of the arts with others.

You'll breeze through cleaning day when you have a few tricks up your sleeve—and a few time-saving tools. Carry a basketful of supplies as you move from room to room. Don't forget a feather duster for quick touch-ups and an old toothbrush for getting into cracks and corners. A covered coffee can is great for emptying ashtrays and collecting those stray bits of litter, room by room.

By DOUGLAS N. HOWE

REALTOR

REALISM IN PRICING

Be realistic when you put a price on your home. It can make the difference between a quick sale and weeks or even months of waiting. We have a saying in the real estate business, a slogan that real estate brokers and salespeople keep in mind all the time: "A home priced right is a home half sold."

Many factors enter into the pricing of a home. Besides the obvious physical attributes — size, type, number of rooms, lot, etc., there's always the matter of location and that elusive, but all-important concept called "the market."

The market can either favor the buyer or the seller. A demand for homes caused by, say, industrial expansion, can make it a seller's market. If mortgage money becomes scarce or if the number of homes for sale is excessive, the market may favor the buyer. The key to fair home pricing is to constantly monitor and analyze the market. We do this on a day-to-day basis to make sure the price on your home is the right one — the SELLING one!

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at THE HOWE AGENCY, 4 Pynchard Ave., Andover. Phone: 475-5100. We're here to help.

Dear Realtors,

I believe one of the strongest points of selling real estate in Andover is our quality educational system. I am sure that you are aware through our local newspaper of the effort I have made to keep quality education in Andover.

As a candidate for state Representative one of my main issues is that of accountability of expenditures for education. If I am elected, I can assure you that I will continue to give a 100% effort to these and any other issues that will affect my constituents. I hope you will take these qualities into consideration and vote Gerry Grasso.

Sincerely yours,

Held In Murder Of Friend

Andover resident Kenneth "Barney" Sheehan, 30, is being held in the Lawrence House of Correction without bail, charged with the murder of a friend by running him down with a car Monday night near East Junior High School.

Sheehan, 6 Memorial Circle, has been charged with murder, assault and battery with a dangerous weapon — the car — and drunken driving. He pleaded innocent during his arraignment at Lawrence District Court yesterday, and his case was continued until Oct. 5.

Arthur "Butch" Kobylarz, 28, of 431 Howe St., Methuen, was dead on arrival at Lawrence General Hospital Monday night after being dragged under the car Sheehan was driving, according to police.

A second friend, Michael Gallant, 33, of 15 Vine St., Andover, was also hit by the car, police said. Gallant was treated for minor injuries at Lawrence General and released.

According to Gallant and the police department, the incident began when the three men gathered in Central Park, across from East Junior High, to play cards. Gallant said they were drinking at the time.

When an argument erupted over the game, Sheehan left and walked to his apartment, where he lives with his mother, and took her blue Dodge Dart, police said. A few minutes later, around 7 p.m., Sheehan drove up behind Kobylarz and Gallant as they walked along Chestnut Street, near the corner of Whittier Street, and hit them with the car.

Police said Gallant was thrown into the bushes at the side of the street, while Kobylarz was dragged about 500 feet before dropping to the ground at the Doherty Junior High construction site.

Patrolman Fred Sunderland was nearby and heard the screech of Sheehan's tires, he said. He did not see the victim's body at first, and charged Sheehan only with driving under the influence. Soon after Sheehan's arrest, police found the body and charged Sheehan with murder.

Gallant said he and Sheehan had argued over 75 cents during the game, and Kobylarz had punched Sheehan. Gallant said he then hit Kobylarz to prevent a fight. Sheehan left and returned with the car, when he found the others walking along Chestnut Street and hit them.

Gas Prices

The Executive Office of Energy Resources (E.O.E.R.) released the results of the latest monthly gasoline survey for the state of Massachusetts.

The figures show a very slight decrease in prices over the last 60 days.

The survey, which includes 75 full and self-serve stations across the Commonwealth, indicates the average price for a gallon of regular gasoline is $1.24. Last year at this time the average price was $1.31. Unleaded regular gasoline cost an average of $1.29 per gallon.

Equality Of Confusion Will Reign When New Junior High Opens

By Sue Aucella Deacon

The plight of the seventh-grader in the first few weeks of school is usually a lonely one. They alone wander around their new junior high school feeling disoriented and sometimes a little overwhelmed, while the veteran eighth and ninth-graders stride confidently through classrooms and corridors.

But not this September. This September there's a whole new school on the scene in Andover — Doherty Junior High — and those veteran eighth and ninth-graders, along with teachers and staff, will be just as confused as the seventh-graders — at least for a while.

"For the seventh, eighth and ninth-graders, it's going to be a new school," Superintendent Dr. Kenneth Seifert points out. "During the first weeks, everyone is going to be spending their time finding out what's in this place."

When the new school opens its doors next Thursday, students will find, among a few rough edges, an environment totally different from that of the old East Junior High (although East's Memorial Auditorium is undergoing renovations, and will be used as part of Doherty by the first of the year.)

"The rooms are larger, with brighter colors, so it is what we hope will be a brighter environment and a warmer place," the superintendent notes. And the renovated school will also offer greater "accessibility."

"We are coming from a school that was originally two schools, a junior high and a high school with an auditorium in between," Seifert explains. "Now, architecturally it is one school. Students will find things more conveniently located and be able to get around more quickly."

To Dr. Richard McGrail, Doherty's principal, the possibilities presented by the new school are "kind of exciting. As I wrote in a letter to the teachers, it's an opportunity for us to re-evaluate what we've been doing, and to move closer to the goals we've been talking about for years."

"There are many things that we never had the facilities to do," the principal says. "Now, those limitations don't exist any more."

Among those new opportunities, one of the most dramatic examples will be the industrial arts program. The new curriculum will offer a "comprehensive program on the world of work," Seifert says.

As Dr. McGrail describes it, the program will move from the former "pretty traditional program of woodworking and mechanical drawing" to "an overall educational experience in plumbing, electricity, carpentry, graphics, all the building trades, so that students are exposed to a multitude of experiences."

Taking advantage of the new school facilities, the emphasis on "hands-on" experience will carry over into academic subjects as well, the principal says. In science, students will spend more time on lab work, because instead of two laboratories for the entire school, there is now a lab in each science room. In music, there will now be a band room and practice rooms.

"Students will spend more time doing something rather than sitting around listening," McGrail says, "which is in tune with what a middle school is supposed to be."

Also in tune with the middle school concept, new this year, will be the absence of bells to signal the start and end of classes.

While "just a surface thing," the silencing of bells will give teachers more opportunity to make decisions, the principal explains: if students are engrossed in a lab experiment, they will not have to rush off when the bell rings; their teacher will simply arrange to extend the class for a few minutes.

Doherty will also offer improved facilities for the learning-impaired, "a tremendous improvement," the principal reports. "We will now have very good learning stations for each group, from the mildly impaired to the handicapped."

The opportunity to move into a "wonderful facility, at great sacrifice to the community," carries with it the responsibility to respect the school, the superintendent emphasizes. "We should be prepared for vandalism, and if that happens, the first question should be addressed to students," Seifert says.

"Through the student councils, we hope to set up a process to deal with vandalism. It's their environment, their world, and we're asking them to police their own ranks. I think they will do a good job."

Each new year brings changes throughout the school system, and this year students can expect two major changes, according to Dr. Charles Mitsakos, assistant superintendent: the implementation of a system-wide speaking and listening program, in the planning for two years, to help students develop those skills; and, at the junior high level, computer-related instructional programs.

Another innovation: quarterly reports to parents and the community on progress and problems at the schools. These reports, Dr. Seifert says, will cover everything from student attendance and student achievements to energy consumption.

"We hope it will add to a further understanding of the schools, and keep people informed," the superintendent says. "Each school will have information to send home to parents about what's going on. Also, it's a vehicle for getting back to the students how they are doing as a student body. I think it will be a positive thing."

(Seifert added that because it may take a while to get this new idea off the ground, parents may not receive four reports this year.)

This year will also bring a new starting time at the elementary schools: Instead of 8:30 a.m., the elementary school day will begin at 9. (Supervision, however, will begin at 8:45).

But some things will remain the same. At the junior high schools and at Andover High, the school day will still begin at 7:35 a.m.

User fees will continue at the same rate as last year ($20 per after-school sport, maximum $35 per student and $50 per family; $35 for music lessons not taken for academic credits).

Bus routes will probably remain the same: the superintendent does not "foresee any major changes. There will be some modifications." The bus policy provides transportation for elementary students outside a mile-and-a-half ratio, with some exceptions for safety reasons, and secondary students outside a two-mile ratio.

And Food Service Director Richard Baron plans to hold the line on school lunch prices, 65 cents in the elementary schools and 75 cents at the secondary level. (That won't be easy with inflation and federal budget cutbacks, Baron says, but he and his staff are going to give it a good try.)

This year's budget is a tight one, courtesy of Proposition 2½, and one result will be a few more students in each classroom. The classroom may not appear more crowded to students, but the average class size will increase in some math, science and social studies classes at the high school. And, the superintendent points out, while pupil-teacher ratios may not look much different from last year's, they have been "creeping up year by year."

The administration is "concerned" by this year's reduction in staff, Dr. Mitsakos says, and is trying to "develop a positive attitude among the community and staff to improve morale. There have been staff reductions, there have been budget reductions, there have been school closings, but we're trying to be upbeat about where we're going."

"I find it rather ironic," the superintendent adds, "that the federal budget and the state budget have increased, while the community of Andover has been effected by reductions. We have felt it here, and I don't see that happening at the state and national level. I find that difficult to accept."

But Seifert says he is ready to focus on the students, and to turn to them for new ideas on coping with smaller budgets. "Clearly with the limit on budgets, students are going to have to be more creative, more resourceful, suggesting ways to make up for a significant reduction in field trips, for example. I think that inspires independence and responsibility — it can be a positive thing."

He also hopes to offer student activities to "use up the energy" that students once put into after-school jobs, noting that the job market is "really drying up student opportunities." Those school activities could also help students apply what they have learned in the classroom, Seifert notes.

Secondary school students can expect to have more responsibility handed to them — to help fight vandalism and cafeteria litter, for example — by working through "very active" student councils with "specific rights and responsibilities. Good students need more responsibility, to start making decisions earlier."

One student responsibility that will be emphasized this year — part of a school policy that will be strictly enforced: Students must come to school alert and ready to learn, "not falling asleep with their eyes open." Students who are not "ready to go, who are not going to try" will be sent home, or to the nurse's office.

Above all, the superintendent has his eyes

Patience Required As Projects Wind Down

By John P. Sawyer

Andover public school buildings will be ready to go when classes start, but at the new Doherty School, the High School and the West Junior High, teachers, administrators and students alike will have to be "patient" as construction projects are wrapped up, according to Al Hart, plant engineer.

"It's going to be tight as far as (those) buildings being ready," he said, explaining there will be many "loose ends" to be cleaned up. "The custodians will have a very difficult job" getting those schools ready for occupancy.

Because construction at Doherty, the High School and the West has prohibited normal cleaning and generally made those buildings "dirty and dusty" all over, temporary help will assist custodians in their efforts to shine up the schools.

"Everybody's rushing around now trying to get last minute things done," said Hart.

At the Doherty, painting, insulation and cabinetry work could be ongoing for four weeks into the school year, according to Principal Richard McGrail, who recently told school committee members that there should be no safety problems for the students or interference with the educational process.

But a handicapped entrance to the school won't be finished until six or seven weeks after classes begin. Doherty's physical education program will be coordinated with Phillips Academy. Sports locker rooms will not be ready for football this fall. Memorial Wing won't be complete until the first of next year.

At the High School, the guidance area will be usable but not complete. The media center won't be ready until sometime in the fall, and the auditorium won't be finished until next spring.

The science labs and media center at the West Junior High should be ready for the opening of school.

At Andover's other public schools, getting ready has been "routine," according to Hart. All wooden gym floors in all schools will be refinished.

New oil burners were installed over the summer at the West Junior High and the Sanborn School in an effort to promote greater fuel efficiency. Windows in the rear section of the West have been reglazed and painted to improve the appearance of that school, said Hart. Lockers have been repaired there.

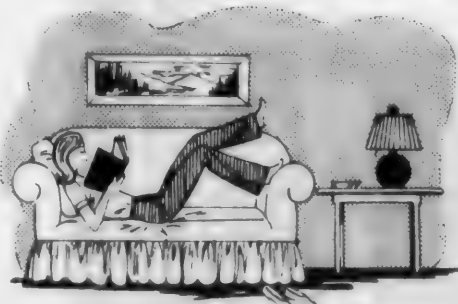

At the Bancroft School, exterior lighting has been improved to help with security. Hart said children have in the past broken lights there and climbed on the school roof. In addition, some parts of a stair tower and bridge to the second floor have been rebuilt due to damage caused by water and carpenter ants, he reported.

Damaged pavement in front of the Sanborn School is scheduled to be repaired, according to Hart. Some flooring is being replaced at the South School.

VISION AFFECTS Schoolwork and Driving

If you find yourself having difficulty reading your textbooks, it's time to have your vision checked. Many children do poorly in school because they can't see the blackboard properly.

Drivers with poor vision are responsible for countless accidents with school children each year.

Merchants Braced For Last Minute Shopping Rush

By Sue Aucella Deacon

They're bracing themselves for the rush, expecting it to overwhelm them any time now.

Andover merchants expect local students and their parents — who are probably trying to stretch out the summer as long as possible right now — to be flooding the stores after Labor Day, looking for the clothes, shoes and supplies that are essential to every back-to-school routine.

"It's really slow so far," Feet First manager Aimee Mosher reported late last week. "A lot of people are still on vacation. The week after Labor Day will be our busiest — everyone does last-minute shopping."

Priscilla White, manager of Thompson's stationery store, predicted that this week would be a busy one, and the following week — after school has started and students know exactly what they'll need for supplies — will be even more hectic.

But nothing compares to the mob scenes at the store when Phillips Academy students return to campus a week later, Ms. White said. "When PA comes back, forget it!" she said, laughing. "That's when our regular customers come in to find a card, take one look in the door, and just wave, 'I'll come back later.' It's unbelievable."

Some students heading back to school have gotten on the ball, however, especially college students.

Macartney's manager John Zenevitch said, "We have started seeing them come in," he said, adding that the real rush would begin this week and next.

The brisk business was reported by Macartney's ladies department — manager Rose White said "loads" of students have been in — and Russem's, where manager Mary Lou Corey said lots of shoppers have been searching through the racks.

What are they buying? Zenevitch said the young shoppers, chiefly high school and college age, are collecting the classics. "There are no drastic changes" this fall season, he pointed out. Those always-favorites include sweaters, oxford shirts with button-down collars, chinos, navy blue blazers, corduroys, jeans, and the perennial boat shoe.

"It's basic and traditional," the manager noted.

Downstairs in the ladies department the traditional sellers are popular, too, but with a few new twists. Rose White and sales clerk Julie Morton (a Brooks School student herself) explained.

The junior high, high school and college age shoppers are scooping up blouses with round or button-down collars, corduroys and sweaters, Skyr turtlenecks with tiny prints on the collars or in a multitude of colors, Austrian wool jackets, good leather handbags (small sizes only, please, "nothing clumsy") — and monograms all over the place.

The hottest seller by far: corduroy knickers. "They went like lightning!" Rose said. Skirts, on the other hand, have not proved very popular with student shoppers.

The latest rage ("We can't keep them in stock") with junior high and high school students is Tretorn tennis shoes, a basic white shoe with accents of pastel colors. They come in yellow, blue, green — and students are carefully coordinating them with their wardrobes.

The basics are selling well at Russem's, too, Ms.

Corey indicated: everything from chinos to turtlenecks to oxford shirts, along with cords and baggie jeans. The high school girls who shop at Russem's are buying "lots of tops", with spring-time-favorite ruffles still big, and asking for monograms on many items.

Newer items that have captured students' imagination at Russem's include bow ties (vital to the new tuxedo look), socks in bright colors and patterns, and handbags.

At the bottom of it all, according to Aimee Mosher of Feet First, are clogs for the high school girls, Stride Rites for the little ones, and sneakers for everyone ("Everybody buys sneakers.").

Once they have those button-down oxford shirts on their backs, Andover kids of all school ages head to Thompson's for the real basics — spiral-bound notebooks, three-ring binders and filler paper, pens and pencils. College students, Priscilla White said, also pick up desk lamps and desk accessories like pencil cups.

Back at Macartney's, Rose White has noticed what may be a new trend afoot among young shoppers: They're not afraid to buy expensive items, and they choose them with care.

"They want the really beautiful sweaters, and they head right for the expensive ones. They're not concerned about the price. And then they match everything," the manager said. "They're spending their babysitting money, they can buy a certain amount, and they're very clever about it. They want good quality, and they're very well-coordinated."

"I take my hat off to them," Ms. White said, obviously impressed by the shopping savvy of her young customers. "I think they're all going to look great!"

Andover School Bus Code

With the beginning of another school year, parents are urged to instruct their children on the contents of the Andover School Bus Code as adopted by the Andover School Committee.

Students who violate this code, violate the rights of other students on the bus and possibly subject these students to undue safety hazards. Everyone shares equally in the responsibility and safety on the school buses.

Students

1. Only authorized students may ride the bus.

2. Obey the driver in all matters pertaining to the operation of the school bus. The bus driver is the representative of parents and teachers and is directly responsible for the safety of each student on his bus.

3. Exercise courtesy towards others while loading, riding and leaving the bus.

4. Arrive at the bus stop on time and wait for the bus on the curb or shoulder off the road.

5. Cross highways and streets only in front of the bus. Move away from the front bumper of the bus approximately 6-8 feet so the bus driver can observe your crossing. Do not run or dash into street or roads without looking both ways even though the bus driver has traffic stopped.

6. Avoid trespassing on private property and being noisy.

7. Board the bus in an orderly manner when the bus has come to a full stop and the driver has opened the door.

8. Take your seat promptly and if you must stand, grasp a seat bar firmly.

9. Assignment of seats is left to the discretion of the busdriver and/or school authorities. However, if seat assignments are made, compliance is mandatory.

10. Remain seated until the bus comes to a full stop, then leave in an orderly manner.

11. Allow standees off first once the school bus has come to a full stop.

12. Do Not Talk to the driver while the bus is in motion.

13. Avoid actions that might distract the driver and result in a serious accident.

14. Keep your voice low, no shouting, whistling, rough housing, pushing, fighting or throwing objects.

15. Do not extend arms or any other parts of your body out the windows. Do not throw any objects or spit out the bus windows.

16. Do not smoke on the bus.

17. Ask the driver's permission before opening the windows.

18. Help keep the bus clean and report anything damaged in the bus to the driver. Do not eat or chew gum on the bus.

19. Keep books/bundles out of the aisles and do not carry heavy objects on the bus that might cause injury to other students. If you carry small animals on the bus for school projects, you are responsible for their containment while enroute to and from school.

20. Ride your assigned bus and do not ask the driver to make unauthorized stops unless written permission is received from your parent and agreement is reached between the principal and bus driver.

21. Report any violation of these rules to your bus proctor, the bus driver or your teacher.

22. Violation of the above rules may result in suspension of your bus-riding privilege.

Accident Procedure

1. Keep calm and follow the directions of the bus driver. Stay in your seat until the bus driver tells you what action to take.

A. Do not touch any emergency equipment until told by the driver.

B. In case of fire, leave the bus in an orderly manner and move to the nearest exit away from the fire.

2. If the driver is injured and unable to move, notify the nearest adult or contact the police or fire department on the nearest phone.

3. Report any injuries to yourself or other students to the driver.

Parents

1. Instruct children on the content of the bus code

School Opens At St. Augustine's

Brother Thomas Schady, principal of St. Augustine's School, Central Street, has announced school will begin Thursday, Sept. 9, at 8 a.m. for grades seven and eight, and at 8:45 a.m. for grades K through six.

Students should be in the school yard ten minutes prior to the bell. Dismissal will be 2 p.m. for grades seven and eight and at 2:45 p.m. for grades K through six.

Parents should check the Andover Townsman for bus routes. Young children should be wearing a name tag stating name, address, bus number, bus driver and destination. All buses are supposed to leave the central schools (West, South, Bancroft, Sanborn) at 8:30 a.m. to come to St. Augustine's. All walkers and riders will use only School Street again this year. Children are asked to wear their uniforms. Changing will not be allowed once they get to school.

Any bus questions should be directed to Kathy Casey or Sister Kathleen.

To help first graders get acclimated to their new class, half-day sessions will be held until and including Sept. 17. The children will be dismissed from the School Street exit at noon. Parents are required to provide their own transportation.

Except for late registrations, all students are expected to be in uniform on the first day of school. Boys uniform is pastel colored dress shirt, long or short sleeve, solid only; solid green forestties; solid, practical shoes, no sneakers; work and hiking boots are discouraged and must be tied at all times if worn.

Girls uniform is plaid dress, white long or short sleeve blouse, plaid tie, dark blue or green knee socks or leotards. Seventh and eighth grade girls may wear stockings. Solid practical shoes must be worn, no sneakers or clogs.

Different teachers require different stationery needs. It is wise not to purchase many supplies until the teachers notify the students of their needs. A pencil and possibly a few sheets of paper are sufficient for the first few days.

The hot lunch program will begin on the first day of school. Lunch is 65¢ and milk 20¢.

During the first few days of school, various forms and notices will be sent home with the children.

School Lunch

Prices To Remain Firm

School lunch prices for the Andover public school students will not be increased as the food services department readies for another school year.

Elementary and junior high students will be charged 65¢. High school students will pay 75¢.

Continued increases in operating costs and less federal assistance makes it difficult to hold the lunch prices firm, but the food services department is making every effort to keep prices stable.

The department looks forward to student support of the lunch program.

Easing Child's Anxiety About The First Day

Thousands of children are preparing to go back to school. Whether heading for grade school, junior high or high school, they are all about to experience both the excitement and apprehension of new beginnings.

For one group of children—those going to school for the first time—the transition from summertime to schooltime may not be a perfectly smooth one. And the first day or even several days of school for these youngsters may be marked by tears, upset stomachs or cases of "the jitters."

According to Kathryn Tolbert, Ph.D., associate in psychology at The Children's Hospital Medical Center in Boston, it is quite normal for first-timers to feel some anxiety about beginning school. "Most often, the anxiety is caused by the fear of being separated from a parent or parents," she says. "Unless they are veterans of daycare or nursery school, it may be the first time that many of these children are spending a large block of time away from home. They may worry about their parents leaving and never coming back for them."

In addition to their own anxiety about starting school, children can sense the fears of others. "We often find that parents have anxiety about sending their children to school," says Dr. Tolbert. "Children have remarkable antennae that tune in to their parents' feelings. If parents are worried, children will sense it and become concerned as well."

According to Dr. Tolbert, there are many ways parents can help to prepare a child who is starting school for the first time. Among the most important is that parents "talk about the approaching school days in a positive way. For example," she says, "parents may let their child know how proud they are that he or she is old enough to go to school. Children love to anticipate an event they sense their parents are excited about."

Another way to prepare a child is to reduce the fear of the unknown. By providing as much information about school as possible, a child will feel more comfortable on the first day. A dry-run visit to the school building is one way to help a child imagine what school will be like. "If the school is located in the neighborhood," says Dr. Tolbert, "parents can take a trip to the school with their child. A rehearsal trip to school is also an ideal opportunity to initiate conversation about school activities. Parents can tell their child that school will be a place to meet new friends and learn how to do new things such as read, make numbers and play games," she says.

Parents can also help prepare children for school by changing their youngsters' daily schedule. "Schooltime means more structured activities than children are accustomed to," says Dr. Tolbert. "Beginning about a week before school starts, parents might consider slowly changing the content of their child's days. Earlier bedtimes and more structured and educational activities, such as a trip to a museum, may help the child make an easier transition."

Back-to-school rituals such as shopping for school clothes, shoes or even stationery supplies can help prepare a child for school. "It's not the quantity or price of the purchases that are important," says Dr. Tolbert. "Any small school-related items such as shoelaces, pencils or erasers will help make a child feel that starting school is a special occasion."

Even if school preparations have gone smoothly, and a child seems to be looking forward to starting school, parents should not be surprised if, on the first day, anxiety sets in. Says Dr. Tolbert, "Parents should try to accompany their child to school on the first day, or at least arrange for someone familiar to the child, such as an older sibling or family friend, to do so."

According to Dr. Tolbert, most children who begin school for the first time have anxiety for just a few days. "If parents find that the anxiety lasts much longer, or gets worse each day rather than better, they may consider seeking professional help."

Sign of the Times in our town.

It's not just the typical yard sign you find in the front of houses for sale. This sign tells you that the owners of the property chose the real estate broker whose knowledge of your local market has resulted in an unmatched record of bringing buyers and sellers together.

The sign means both the buyer and seller will be given professional attention measured against the highest standards of the industry. It means the seller can count on the most up-to-date marketing techniques.

To both buyer and seller it means a saving of time, energy, and effort - and money.

If you're thinking of selling or buying, you'll know a lot more about your prospects after a talk with us. Phone or use the coupon:

The Mercedes-Benz 300D: its turbodiesel performance is not only exhilarating. It's efficient.

The addition of a turbocharger has transformed the character of the Mercedes-Benz 300 D Sedan. Its turbodiesel engine is the most powerful diesel engine ever offered in a passenger car.

Yet the 300 D retains all the frugality of a conventional diesel.

More importantly, the 300 D also embodies

Mercedes-Benz' exacting standards of engineering, comfort and safety. Advanced features like all-independent suspension, disc brakes at all four wheels, and gas-pressurized shock absorbers.

The 300 D is an engineer's idea of a practical, 5-passenger diesel automobile... and a driver's idea of a Mercedes-Benz.

BUYING A SAAB IS SMART. LEASING ONE MAY BE SMARTER.

Now you don't have to plunk down the family fortune all at once for the pleasure of driving a Saab.

By leasing one, you'll pay only $293.52* a month for 48 months. You'll also have a minimal down payment,* no debt obligation, $293.52 PER MONTH FOR 48 MONTHS. and some very interesting tax breaks.

So come in for a more complete rundown on leasing vs. buying and a test drive.

Of course, if after that test drive - or a few months of leasing - you want to plunk down the money to buy a Saab, well, that's okay, too.

*Model 904A, 4 dr. Sedan, Automatic

The most intelligent car ever built.

*Down payment $300.00.

on the future — the future of Andover's students. "We're talking about the citizens of the 21st century. We need to look at and focus on heading toward the 21st century, and what demands will be made on these kids. We have to prepare them appropriately for those demands."

And Dr. Seifert is confident that the Andover school system is capable of preparing its students for that future. "The level of effort and offerings is more than satisfactory in our schools," he says.

"I see a commitment from students, teachers and educators here. For the most part, education is working and working well in Andover."

Ken McGuire, junior custodian for the Andover School Department, does a little cleaning at the West Elementary School.

Inventory Clearance SALE On All AUDI 4000's Invest In The Best

Audi Now all of our precise automotive technology can be yours for less than you ever dreamed. Because of the art of engineering, Audi has just added the art of boosting sticker value.

If you buy an Audi 4000S sports sedan with automatic transmission, tachometer, dual electrically adjustable outside mirrors, and a 4-spoke sports steering wheel, you will get that $750 worth of extras for only $250.*

All those extras are fine. But it's the car they go on that makes their value so special: Precision engineering of the highest order, the handling and roadability of front-wheel drive, and a combination of performance and luxury undreamed of in a sports sedan. Perhaps you think we've become carried away. Ask your Porsche Audi dealer for a test drive in the Audi 4000S and we'll see who gets carried away!
